DENTIST MURDERED; BLAME DOPE TRAFFIC FOR CHICAGO CRIME

Victim Shot While Treating Patient in His Office

CHICAGO, April 25.—Ter-rifying a woman patient and a professional associate, two gunmen invaded the dental office of Dr. Frank L. Brady, 32, and murdered him as he pleaded for his life.

As the dentist's body slumped to the floor, the leader of the invading pair, shout-ed, "There, you—, you'll never try that stunt again." With another curse, the two fled through the dentist's outer office, past several waiting patients and escaped.

Dr. Brady had extracted a tooth last night for Mrs. Edna Walsh, 25, and had asked his associate, Dr. R. H. Best, to watch over her while she recovered from an anaes-thetic. The dentist had placed another patient in the chair in an adjoining room and had returned to Mrs. Walsh when the gunmen burst in the door.

"I've got you now," the first gun-man shouted as he pressed a re-volver against Dr. Brady's head.

"Oh, don't, don't," the dentist pleaded. For a moment he strug-gled with his opponent. His fingers clutched the barrel of the revolver which was pressed to the breast of his white dental jacket.

With an oath, the gunman fired. Dr. Brady crumpled to the floor at the feet of his slayer. The gun-man leaned over placed his re-volver against the quivering form and fired a second bullet into the dentist's body. He motioned to his companion and ran out past Dr. Best and Mrs. Walsh who had backed against the wall.

Waiting patients and other den-tists on the floor rushed into the office. Dr. Brady had died in-stantly.

Mrs. Cora Brady, the dentist's widow, summoned from her home said she had attended a prize fight with a friend. She could not offer any possible motive for her hus-band's murder.

Detectives, however, asserted Dr. Brady had dealt in narcotics and had had acquaintance with gan-gsters. They revealed that he had used an alias Dr. Black, in several transactions.

The murder also disclosed that the slain dentist was the son of Mrs. Anna Beauchamp, who com-mitted suicide several years ago during the trial of "Midget" Fern-kes, notorious robber and safe-blower.

Mrs. Beauchamp, police said, had served as Fernkes' decoy in sev-eral robberies. They charged Dr. Brady had had an acquaintance with Fernkes, who now is serving a prison term in Joliet.

Dr. Brady's records, police said, indicated that he was slain by gangsters who in some manner had been involved in the dentist's illicit narcotic trade or in the Fern-kes affair.

CLEVELAND POLICE ANSWER CHALLENGE FROM LAWLESSNESS

Twelve Arrested As Au-thorities Start Clean-Up

CLEVELAND, April 25.—Police today had answered the challenge of lawlessness, represented by bomb attacks directed against the homes of two policemen and the murder of two gangsters, by ar-resting five liquor law violators, and seven murder suspects.

Federal agents contributed to the total by bringing in an addi-tional five charged with violation of the prohibition laws.

Of the seven men held for ques-tioning in connection with the mur-der of Isadore Schiller, 43, and Morris "Skinny" Puerstman, 27, none is suspected of actual partici-pation in the killing, police said.

Bodies of the two men, both al-leged police characters, bootleg-gers and racketeers, were found under a bridge at the foot of Skinner's Hill, south of the city. Their necks had been broken, their heads battered and an ice pick plunged into their brains.

Police believe they were killed by Detroit gangsters, retaliating for recent hijacking activities of the two in the Detroit liquor field.

Two suspects in the bombing of the home of Capt. William A. Mc-Master and a house formerly oc-cupied by Sergt. Patrick Holland, still are held. They were picked up a few hours after the explosion.

The two are brothers, and were named as the most likely suspects by Capt. McMaster. Operators of a "chain" of bootleg joints, their places have been raided numerous times by Sergt. Holland, on orders from Capt. McMaster.

They are also suspected of con-nection with the bombing of a house formerly occupied by Sergt. Joseph Mack. Sergt. Mack arrested them following the shooting of Charles Gamble, Jan. 21.

Game had identified them as his assassins, police said, but later, when he thought he was going to recover from his wounds, he de-clared he never had seen the two before and they were released.

Game later died.

Both men are held for investiga-tion while police search for a third man, suspected of a professional "bomber" who is believed to have done the actual placing of the ex-plosives that blasted fronts of the two homes early yesterday.

Safety Director Edwin Dam Bar-ry and Police Chief Jacob Graul have declared open warfare on all speakeasies.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

ELYRIA, April 25.—Kent T. Brickley, Oberlin deputy marshal, pleaded not guilty to a charge of manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of Melvin Scott of Oberlin Sunday and was bound over to the grand jury under $1000 bond by Justice S. J. George.

AIMEE BREAKS MONOTONY IN PLANE

To break the monotony of court sessions, Mrs. Aimee Semple Mc-Pherson, leader of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, a principal witness in the impeachment trial of Judge Carlos S. Hardy in Sacramento, made her first airplane trip. Above, with her daughter, Roberta, she is boarding an air liner for the trip to Sacramento from Los Angeles.

COOPER'S ADMINISTRATION IS BOTH ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

By THE UNITED PRESS
Politics flared up in Ohio today, with Governor Cooper's adminis-tration being assailed from two quarters and defended from a third.

In Celina, O., last night, former Governor Vic Donahey condemned the four-cent gasoline tax bill, re-cently signed by the governor, and in Zanesville, former Congressman Martin L. Davey of Kent, renewed his attack on the administration.

From Columbus, M. L. Bigger, an attorney and ardent Republican, called upon Davey to prove his statement that Governor Cooper and his administration "are con-trolled by the corrupt, Cincinnati Republican gang."

Former Governor Donahey, a Democrat, said that with the gas tax increase Ohio motorists will be paying $50,000,000 annually to the state.

"Motorists and corporations to-gether," he said, "will contribute $70,000,000 in taxes and both cor-porations and motorists believe their particular tax is becoming unbearable."

The answer is simple, Ohio peo-ple must mass their political in-fluence and deny the appetite of government by electing men to the legislative branches, both state and local, who will represent the people and not general expedi-ency."

Davey, Democratic nominee for governor who was defeated by Gov-ernor Cooper in the last election, predicted that "unless this tax raising and tax spending orgy is rebuked, the tax-eating monster will be back again in two years for more and the tax on gasoline will be increased to 5 cents a gallon."

Davey said he was speaking as "a private citizen, keeping the public informed and not as a can-didate for renomination." He charged the Cooper administration forced through the general ap-propriations bill on a lump sum basis (in the last general assembly) without the usual specific author-izations.

"This is a strange and dangerous departure from state practice," he said.

"The increase in the gas tax," Davey declared, "represents not only broken promise but a sur-render to the clamor like hungry wolves for more and more of the people's hard-earned money."

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 25.—With a smiling "I cannot remember," the fiery-haired Aimee Semple Mc-Pherson successfully repulsed her prosecution questions in a near-midnight session of the impeachment trial of Superior Judge Carlos Hardy.

The calling of the Angelus Tem-ple evangelist to the witness stand was entirely unexpected but her testimony was devoid of any definite reference to her mysterious "surf to sand" disappearance in 1926 which eventually brought Judge Hardy before a senate court charged with misconduct in office.

Mrs. McPherson, summoned as a prosecution witness at the opening of the trial had been allowed to leave the city after the assem-bly stated it felt nothing could be gained from the evangelist's testi-mony.

With an air of complete assur-ance, the evangelist walked into the courtroom behind a senate at-tache, paused at counsel table for a moment; then advanced to the witness stand.

The moment was probably one of the most dramatic of the entire trial. The senate chamber and the gallery, was packed to capacity with women and men who had listened for several days to the charges of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sellars that the evangelist's kid-

BANKER CONFESSES SHORTAGES CAUSED BY IRREGULARITIES

Admission Clears
Youngstown Case;
$60,000 Missed

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 25.—Shortages discovered in accounts of the Union Savings Bank here have been cleared up by a complete confession from Philip F. Carosella, president of the institution. County Prosecutor Ray L. Thom-son revealed today.

The state banking department took over the bank a few days ago and Carosella was arrested. The shortages, attributed chiefly to "bad paper," will aggregate more than $60,000, Thomson said.

Thomas said Carosella revealed the shortages yesterday in the presence of Major Charles F. Miller, state bank inspector, and his own attorneys. He said Carosella declined, on advice of his attorneys to talk further about the situation, but Thomas issued the following statement:

"Carosella has made a complete confession to me in the presence of his attorneys, of irregularities he participated in as president of the bank. He has shown an inclina-tion to assist authorities and state bank examiners in cleaning up the situation."

The committee met with repre-sentatives from various townships in planning the year's activities. Eighteen boys and girls were mem-bers of the club last year and the goal set for this year is forty members.

Plans for exhibiting the animals at county and state fairs were made. The dairy judging team will also be selected from the club to represent the county at the state fair. Boys and girls interested should communicate with the com-mittee.

BOXER DIES FROM CLOT ON BRAIN

ZANESVILLE, O., April 25.—Bill Podrazza, 24, Houston, Tex., boxer, died here last night from a blood clot on the brain believed to have resulted from a fight at Mobile, Ala., March 20. The body will be sent to Houston for burial.

Podrazza stopped off here early this week with his wife and man-ager with whom he was enroute to New York. He collapsed as he entered a local hotel. Physicians discovered the blood clot when they examined him.

TWENTY-TWO HURT IN BUS - TRAIN COLLISION

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., April 25.—Twenty-two persons were injured in a head-on collision between a loaded Pony Express motor bus and a South Shore electric freight train here today.

The bus, bound from Chicago to Detroit, was demolished.

A number of the passengers were imprisoned in the wreckage and were rescued by motorists and pedestrians near the scene of the collision.

The more seriously injured were taken to a hospital here. They were James McGowan, Robert Ross, Stephen Blatz, Mrs. Alex-ander Charbonneau and William King, all of Chicago; Anthony Barnhart, Granite City, Ill.; J. E. Kinney, Detroit, and Sterling Peak, Detroit, driver of the bus.

Peak was reported to have been fatally injured. He was crushed be-hind the steering wheel of the heavy bus.

YACHT RESCUES TEN SAILORS FLOATING IN OPEN LIFEBOAT

Eleventh Survivor Dies;
Spent Week In
Open Boat

NEW YORK, April 25.—Ten half-dead men, buffeted in an open lifeboat far at sea for more than a week, after their four-masted schooner, the James E. Coburn had foundered, were rescued today by the yacht Amida, wireless mes-sages to the Radio Marine Corpora-tion said.

Originally, eleven men had taken their place in the lifeboat when the Coburn, owned by J. Fonseca of New Bedford, Mass., founded 250 miles north of Bermuda on April 17. But last night, while the lifeboat floated aimlessly and help-lessly in the trough, one of the men, W. Sargent, the cook, died from exposure.

The rescue was effected at 5 a. m., according to a wireless from Skipper McLaughlin of the yacht Amida, at 34.25 latitude north; 64.35 longitude west.

The rescued were J. Pereira, master, Edward Rice, mate, W. Williken, engineer; John Britto, boatswain; Joseph Madeiros, purser; Eugenio Senedo, mess boy; and Seamen Joseph Delgado, Manuel Swua, Henry Andres and R. Mon-tero.

An earlier message from Mc-Laughlin said the lifeboat con-tained the dead member of the crew when it was picked up about 100 miles north of Bermuda.

The James E. Coburn sailed out of Baltimore Harbor April 1 for Port au Prince, Haiti. More than a week later, the ship was seen sailing past Cape Henry. Nothing was heard from it after that.

The schooner is 190 feet long, and of about 900 tons.

FRANK WOLF HEADS COUNTY DAIRY CLUB

Frank A. Wolf was selected chairman of the Greene County Boys' and Girls' Dairy Club Com-mittee, also County Dairy Club Leader at a meeting in the Court House Wednesday night. Members of the committee are: Fred Van Tress and Lawrence Alexander, Jersey breeders; S. D. Andrews, Guernsey breeder and Frank Wolf, Holstein breeder.

The committee met with repre-sentatives from various townships in planning the year's activities. Eighteen boys and girls were mem-bers of the club last year and the goal set for this year is forty members.

MORE THAN HUNDRED HURT WHEN VILLAGE STRUCK BY TWISTER

School Principal Is Hero;
Rescue Work Is
Rushed

PALESTINE, Tex., April 25.—The town of Slocum, eighteen miles south of here, lay in ruins today, every dwelling and store leveled by a cyclone which struck from the south shortly after noon yesterday.

Seven bodies have been re-covered from the wreckage of homes, stores and a schoolhouse. Several persons still were missing and it was possible the number of dead might reach ten.

More than 100 persons were injured. Palestine hospitals reported twenty-five victims in critical condition.

The known dead:
Mr. and Mrs. P. E. McDaniels.
Mrs. Ben Kirkwood and two sons.
Claude Melver, 7.
Mrs. Bud Gatlin.

Among the critically injured in the Palestine Hospital was Thomas J. Gatlin, crippled principal of Slocum village schools. It was Gat-lin's cool-headedness and heroism which probably saved the lives of many of his 150 pupils who were trapped in two wooden buildings.

Gatlin saw the storm approach-ing and ordered his pupils to lie on the floor under their desks. The upper structures were swept away by the wind. Only one pupil was killed. Several were injured when caught in the wreckage. The crippled principal climbed from the debris, worked for three hours extricating some of his pupils and then collapsed of serious internal injuries.

Roads blocked with fallen trees and tangled telephone wires handi-capped Red Cross workers who rushed from Palestine with tents, coats and medical supplies. The first relief group was forced to reach many of the injured who had been caught under their homes.

The storm area covered a sec-tion ten miles long and in some places a mile wide, although the town proper bore the brunt of the

FINDLAY COLLEGE PRESIDENT RESIGNS

FINDLAY, April 25.—Harvey L. Allen, president of Findlay College, has resigned effective at the end of the present college year, be-cause of opposition to his plan to have the college recognized as an accredited institution, it was an-nounced today.

President Allen is opposed by college trustees who believe that raising the school's standard would cause too great a financial outlay, it was said.

In resigning, President Allen ex-pressed the belief that "the entire matter could be given freer dis-cussion without embarrassment to either himself or the trustees if he relinquished his duties."

President Allen came here three years ago from Guthrie, Okla.

BRITON LEADS PYLE PEDAL BRIGADE

MAPLEWOOD, Mo., April 25.—Pat Harrison, in seventeenth place, was expected to strain for the lead in the C. C. Pyle cross-country race today, since today's run will finish at Pat's home town, Sullivan, Mo., sixty-one miles distant.

Ed Gardner, 23-year old Seattle Negro, never lost the lead in the twenty-eight miles run from Col-linsville, Ill. here yesterday. He made the distance in 2:38:50, fol-lowed in fourteen minutes by Pete Gavuzzi, England, who leads the contingent in lapid time with 15:55:47 for the trip. After Gav-uzzi come:

2. John Salo, Passaic, 16:34:32.
3. Ed Gardner, Seattle, 16:42:55.
4. Gusto Umek, Italy, 17:03:16.

The employees were captured as they were riding on a truck and were court martialed immediately on a charge of "stealing grain from small farms."

YOUTH SHOTS MAN
IN THEATER LOBBY

CLEVELAND, O., April 25.—While Joseph H. Deboeuf, 42, lay in a hospital here today, police were seeking a youth who shot him down in the lobby of the Standard Theater last night.

Deboeuf refused to discuss the shooting, according to police, other than to say that the gunman shot him as he leaned over a fountain to get a drink of water.

Scores of pedestrians and Traf-fic Officer Thomas Corrigan pur-sued the youth but he escaped in the crowd.

RADIO-TELEGRAPH NETWORK PLANNED

CLEVELAND, O., April 25.—Authority to establish a radio network servicing at least thirty cities is sought in applications filed with the federal radio commission by the Wireless Telegraph and Communications Company of Northbrook, Ill., and the Inter-city Radio Company, of Cleveland.

The Inter-city at present operates a ship-to-shore service covering the Great Lakes.

The two companies today were said to be planning a radio-telegraph system that would span the country and parallel existing telegraph lines.

Both are said to have the backing of Warner Brothers and First National Pictures companies. The moving picture concerns, it is believed, are looking forward to the development of television.

If the two radio companies get permission to expand their facilities, it is reported that the moving picture interests are willing to back them to the extent of $1,500,000.

AUTO CLUB AGREES TO SUPPORT BENDER

CLEVELAND, April 25.—Members of the Cleveland Automobile Club today were pledged to the support of state Senator George H. Bender in his effort to obtain a constitutional amendment which will give cities a fair representation in the general assembly.

Directors of the club have endorsed the movement. At the same time directors of the chamber of commerce, split over reports submitted by three committees, decided to take a neutral stand.

Members of the metropolitan committee of the chamber favored the proposal, while members of the legislative and taxation committee opposed it, at this time.

COOPER'S ADMINISTRATION IS BOTH ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

By THE UNITED PRESS
Politics flared up in Ohio today, with Governor Cooper's administration being assailed from two quarters and defended from a third.

In Celina, O., last night, former Governor Vic Donahey condemned the four-cent gasoline tax bill recently signed by the governor, and in Zanesville, former Congressman Martin L. Davey of Kent, renewed his attack on the administration.

"The increase in the gas tax," Davey declared, "represents not only a broken promise but a surrender to the selfish interests who clamor like hungry wolves for more and more of the people's hard-earned money."

Attorney Bigger's defense was incorporated in a letter addressed to Davey.

"What the country needs today are men who think of the country first and self and party second," he wrote, accusing Davey of "a cheap political trick to align one section of the state against the other."

"It is just such propaganda," he continued, "that is rocking the country and shaking its foundations. You know Mr. Cooper is not corrupt. You know the state government is not controlled or dominated by a corrupt gang. You know every state office is honestly administered."

"You are taking the surest way of eliminating yourself as a candidate for governor in 1930 and insuring the re-election of Governor Cooper."

When Fire Chief Charles H. Freunz arrived he discovered the flames were beyond the control of his men and summoned fire fighters of Mayfield Heights, Lyndhurst, South Euclid and Chagrin Falls. All were powerless to stop the fire despite a grim battle.

The only water supply available, they said, was a pond three-eighths of a mile away, and they could not reach it.

It is believed the fire had more than an hour's start before it was discovered.

YACHT RESCUES TEN SAILORS FLOATING IN OPEN LIFEBOAT

Eleventh Survivor Dies;
Spent Week In
Open Boat

NEW YORK, April 25.—Ten half-dead men, buffeted in an open lifeboat far at sea for more than a week, after their four-masted schooner, the James E. Coburn had foundered, were rescued today by the yacht Amida, wireless messages to the Radio Marine Corporation said.

Originally, eleven men had taken their place in the lifeboat when the Coburn, owned by J. Fonseca of New Bedford, Mass., founded 250 miles north of Bermuda on April 17. But last night, while the lifeboat floated aimlessly and helplessly in the trough, one of the men, W. Sargent, the cook, died from exposure.

The rescue was effected at 5 a. m. according to a wireless from Skipper McLaughlin of the yacht Amida, at 34.25 latitude north; 64.35 longitude west.

The rescued were J. Pereira, master; Edward Rice, mate; W. Williken, engineer; John Britto, boatswain; Joseph Madeiros, purser; Eugene Seneo, mess boy; and Seamen Joseph Delgado, Manuel Swua, Henry Andres and R. Montero.

An earlier message from McLaughlin said the lifeboat contained the dead member of the crew when it was picked up about 100 miles north of Bermuda.

The James E. Coburn sailed out of Baltimore Harbor April 1 for Port au Prince, Haiti. More than a week later, the ship was seen sailing past Cape Henry. Nothing was heard from it after that.

The schooner is 190 feet long, and of about 900 tons.

MORE THAN HUNDRED HURT WHEN VILLAGE STRUCK BY TWISTER

School Principal Is Hero;
Rescue Work Is
Rushed

PALESTINE, Tex., April 25.—The town of Slocum, eighteen miles south of here, lay in ruins today, every dwelling and store leveled by a cyclone which struck from the south shortly after noon yesterday.

Seven bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of homes, stores and a schoolhouse. Several persons still were missing and it was possible the number of dead might reach ten.

More than 100 persons were injured. Palestine hospitals reported twenty-five victims in critical condition.

The known dead:
Mr. and Mrs. P. E. McDaniels.
Mrs. Ben Kirkwood and two sons.
Claude Melver, 7.
Mrs. Burl Gatlin.

Among the critically injured in the Palestine Hospital was Thomas J. Gatlin, crippled principal of Slocum village schools. It was Gatlin's cool-headedness and heroism which probably saved the lives of many of his 150 pupils who were trapped in two wooden buildings.

Gatlin saw the storm approaching and ordered his pupils to lie on the floor under their desks. The upper structures were swept away by the wind. Only one pupil was killed. Several were injured when caught in the wreckage. The crippled principal climbed from the debris, worked for three hours extricating some of his pupils and then collapsed of serious injuries.

Boys, blocked with fallen trees and tangled telephone wires handicapped Red Cross workers who rushed from Palestine with tents, cots and medical supplies. The first relief group was forced to chop its way through the wreckage to reach many of the injured who had been caught under their homes.

The storm area covered a section ten miles long and in some places a mile wide, although the town proper bore the brunt of the

FINDLAY COLLEGE PRESIDENT RESIGNS

FINDLAY, April 25.—Harry L. Allen president of Findlay College, has resigned, effective at the end of the present college year, because of opposition to his plan to have the college recognized as an accredited institution, it was announced today.

President Allen is opposed by college trustees who believe that raising the school's standard would cause too great a financial outlay, it was said.

In resigning, President Allen expressed the belief that "the entire matter could be given freer discussion without embarrassment to either himself or the trustees if he relinquished his duties."

President Allen came here three years ago from Guthrie, Okla.

BRITON LEADS PYLE PEDAL BRIGADE

MAPLEWOOD, Mo., April 25.—Pat Harrison, in seventeenth place, was expected to strain for the lead in the C. C. Pyle cross-country race today, since today's run will finish at Pat's home town, Sullivan, Mo., sixty-one miles distant.

Ed Gardner, 23-year old Seattle Negro, never lost the lead in the twenty-eight miles run from Collinsville, Ill. here yesterday. He made the distance in 2:38:50, followed in fourteen minutes by Pete Gavuzzi, England, who leads the contingent in lapid time with 1:59:55:47 for the trip. After Gavuzzi came:

2. John Sulo, Passaic, 1:54:24:32.
3. Ed Gardner, Seattle, 1:54:22:53.
4. Gusto Umek, Italy, 1:58:03:16.

The employees were captured as they were riding on a truck and were court martialled immediately on a charge of "stealing grain from small farms."

Four ranch employees were executed near Dolores Hidalgo, state of Guanajuato, by a party of thirty bandits who first made the victims dig their own graves, a dispatch to the newspaper Grafico said.

Let's Go!

Are you ready to "go" after a day's hard work? If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

REMEMBER, in years gone by, when you couldn't wait for mealtime; always hungry; ready to go somewhere—to dances, the theatre or to spend the evening with friends?

But why the change? Possibly, overwork, worry, lack of exercise, sickness or some other cause has reduced your building and sustaining "workers"—the red-blood-cells.

Every cubic millimeter of the normal, healthy human's blood should contain approximately 5,000,000 red corpuscles—those tiny red particles which flow along the blood stream, giving color to the blood; carrying nourishment to the cells of the body, and working against disease.

Thousands of people have a low blood count; this may be attributed to "run-down" systems, pimples and boils, rheumatism, and even more serious ailments.

When you get your red-blood-cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, boils, pimples, skin troubles, and those pains usually called rheumatism, disappear. You get hungry again and you sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You throw off diseases.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

In building rich, red-blood-cells, S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefit in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

Made from fresh vegetable drugs, gathered at the proper season of the year, S.S.S. gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Let's Go!

Are you ready to "go" after a day's hard work? If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

REMEMBER, in years gone by, when you couldn't wait for a mealtime, ways hungry; ready to go somewhere—to dances, the theatre or to spend the evening with friends?

But why the change? Possibly, overwork, worry, lack of exercise, sickness or some other cause has reduced your building and sustaining "workers"—the red-blood-cells.

Every cubic millimeter of the normal, healthy human's blood should contain approximately 5,000,000 red corpuscles—those tiny red particles which flow along the blood stream, giving color to the blood; carrying nourishment to the cells of the body, and working against disease.

Thousands of people have a low blood count to this may be attributed "run-down" systems, pimples and boils, rheumatism, and even more serious ailments.

When you get your red-blood-cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, boils, pimples, skin troubles, and those pains usually called rheumatism, disappear. You get hungry again and you sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You throw off diseases.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

In building rich, red-blood-cells, S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefit in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

Made from fresh vegetable drugs, gathered at the proper season of the year, S.S.S. gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Reports Of Continental Congress Are Heard

ONE of the most interesting meetings of the Daughters of American Revolution, was that held at the home of Miss Sarah Hager, N. Galloway St., Wednesday afternoon, when reports were given by delegates to the Continental Congress, held in Washington, D. C., last week.

Mrs. W. H. McGervey, who attended as the regent alternate, told of the opening sessions of the congress. She told of the memorial services held in the large auditorium on Sunday morning and of the services for the unknown soldier in the afternoon. She also told of the delightful dinner at the Hotel Willard, Sunday evening, honoring Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Howard.

McLELLAND W. C. T. U. HOLDS INSTITUTE

"Health" was the topic of the McLeelland W. C. T. U. all day institute, Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Manor, Treble, with Mrs. Hazel Manor, president of the organization, in charge. A splendid mid-year report of the W. C. T. U. was read by Mrs. Della Snodgrass.

Mrs. Henry Norckauer, presented some of the work in her department, which is soldiers and sailors work.

About fifteen pounds of rags were sewed during the day, and will be taken to the National Military Home Hospital in Dayton for the veterans to use in making rugs.

A bountiful lunch was served at noon after which a social hour was enjoyed. Miss Emma Lyons, secretary of the Joint Red Cross Chapter and Social Service League, gave an interesting talk on her work here. The national convention at Boston, was splendidly reviewed by Mrs. Snodgrass.

Mrs. Elton Haines and Mrs. Irvin Harner closed the program with several musical selections.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clint Manor, Alpha, Wednesday, May 8, with a Mother's Day program.

FRIENDS MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Missionary Society of the Friends Church met at the home of Mrs. Ralph Heaton, S. Detroit St., Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Anna Davis opened the meeting by reading devotions. Roll call was responded to, by each member present reciting a spring poem.

Following a short business session Mrs. Floyd Anderson led the mission study from the book, "Friends in Africa". Mrs. Mary Jane Simson, mother of Mrs. Heaton, who is 83 years of age, recited the poem "Betrayed" which she had learned when she was fourteen years of age. A splendid paper on "The Bible Waits Its Opportunities" was read by Mrs. Eleanor Babb and another, "There are Two Seas", was read by Mrs. Albert Johnson.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Leonard Jones and Mrs. Henry King, served lovely refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed. There were twenty-five members present.

XENIA CLUB WOMEN ATTEND PAGEANT

Twelve members of the Xenia Woman's Club attended the Pageant of Fine Arts at Mrs. Talbot's Rummymede Playhouse, Dayton, which was a feature Wednesday evening of the thirty-third annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs being held in Dayton this week.

The official delegates of the Xenia Club are Mrs. A. S. Frazer, and Mrs. P. H. Flynn. The alternates are Miss Margaret Moorehead, and Miss Helen Hooven Santmyer.

The Standard Bearers of the First M. E. Church met at the home of Miss Betty Kingsbury, W. Second St., Tuesday evening. Following a short business session and devotions a delightful salad course was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Thomas I. Mason, Milwauke, Wis., arrived in this city, Wednesday morning, to join Mr. Mason, who has been here for some time.

NATIONAL FEEDER POOL CONTRACTING FOR LAMBS, CATTLE

Word has been received by A. A. Conklin, county manager of the County Livestock Association, that the National Feeder Pool now has 58,000 lambs under contract, having 11,000 Nevada, 22,000 Oregon, and this week completes the purchase of 25,000 from Texas. A few thousand choice calves and yearling cattle are under contract in Texas. Prices will be announced later and orders accepted.

Last year Mr. Conklin, through the pool placed 800 head of cattle with Greene County feeders. The cattle are obtained by the feeders' representative direct from the range and western markets.

Another service that the Feeder Pool is rendering is in financing feeding operations.

Mr. Conklin says that fifteen of the largest feeders obtained their cattle through the Feeder Pool last year.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

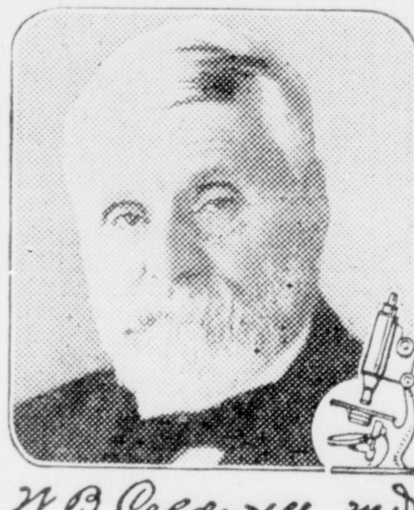

Dr. Caldwell warned of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by thus demonstrating the fact that farmers are case learning the value of pooling their interests and thereby increasing their bargaining power.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person.

Get a bottle today, at any drug-store and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

NATIONAL FEEDER POOL CONTRACTING FOR LAMBS, CATTLE

Word has been received by A. A. Conklin, county manager of the County Livestock Association, that the National Feeder Pool now has 58,000 lambs under contract, having 11,000 Nevadas, 22,000 Oregon, and this week completes the purchase of 25,000 from Texas. A few thousand choice calves and yearling cattle are under contract in Texas. Prices will be announced later and orders accepted.

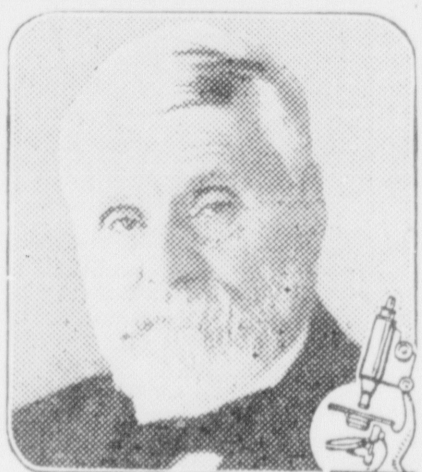

Last year Mr. Conklin, through the pool placed 800 head of cattle with Green County feeders. The cattle are obtained by the feeders' representative direct from the range and western markets.

Another service that the Feeder Pool is rendering is in financing feeding operations.

Mr. Conklin says that fifteen of the largest feeders obtained their cattle through the Feeder Pool last year.

thus demonstrating the fact that farmers are case learning the value of pooling their interests and thereby increasing their bargaining power.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell, who is 83 years of age, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person.

Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MAN'S EXERCISE, GOD'S OPPORTUNITY—When my soul fainted within me I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.—Jonah 2:7.

MIGHT CAUSE COMPLICATIONS

There is a very practical reason why the bill introduced in the senate by Cole Blease, of South Carolina, abolishing the right of foreign envoys in Washington to import liquor for personal consumption will not get anywhere. Such a piece of legislation if endorsed—and an attempt at enforcement would create all sorts of unpleasant and injurious complications—would immediately lay representatives of the United States in other lands open to retaliatory curtailment of their personal immunities and privileges by the governments to which they were accredited, and in some contingencies that might cause decidedly serious situations.

If it is true, as Senator Blease avers, that some of the attaches of foreign embassies and legations in our national capital are guilty of scandalous and perilous conduct in public, there is a way to get at them. The President can always make complaints to their chiefs, or if necessary to their governments. They are guests of the country and the least intimation from the proper official quarters that they are unpleasant guests will always be sufficient to ensure their disappearance.

A third consequence will be to start off the new judges with something more than the public's suspicion that they have obtained the ermine by pulling political wires or personal strings. "Ye shall know them by their" endorers should do much to maintain and increase that popular respect for the bench which is the beginning of rational and effective law enforcement.

APPOINTING CAPABLE JUDGES

Sending to the senate, along with the names of nominees to the federal bench, a list of their endorers, will not relieve Mr. Hoover of responsibility for his selections; but it nevertheless has certain actual and potential merits.

The number of federal judgeships falling vacant during the life of an administration is too great to be filled from a president's personal acquaintance. The range of choice is further limited by the legal necessity or popular expectation that local talent will be recognized in such appointments. A president must, therefore, depend to a large extent on the advice of others, who are personally or professionally acquainted with the qualifications of the candidates; and it is only proper that those who stand sponsor for appointive officials should assume their share of the responsibility openly and in the public eye.

A second consequence of the practice of making public the names of endorers is likely to be a falling off in the number of office-seekers who go to Washington with no other recommendation than that they have been diligent and deserving party workers, as well as in the number of influential citizens who are in the habit of urging upon presidents the claims of friends, where the reasons for their interest in the matter will not stand the light of day.

Your BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell And Mine

NEW YORK.—"So many people have been telling me so many things about Joan Lowell that my ambition has been roused to prove that although I am her husband, I know her, too. First, she isn't Jewish. That story was started by a moving picture agent who tried to buy her book. Personally I wish she were Jewish. She'd probably have more sense, then, and I understand Jewish women turn their money over to their husbands. I can assure you with regret, Joan's attitude on this subject is positive proof of her Christian blood. Alex Woolcott told some people that she is 30 years old. He missed it by only half a dozen years.—Thompson Buchanan."

Meaning, one presumes, that Joan is 36.

THE SQUELCH PROPER

Directly after her acquittal, the Park Boulevard business "Tex" Simpson to the Federal building press room where she posed for pictures. Between yahoos of joy over her freedom, Tex revealed her shapely knees and the Reporter Who Gets a Thrill Out of Such Things chirped: "Ah, she's shouting her joy from the house tops!"

"Sit down, sap!" piped another, "you're leg-weary."

CAME THE YAWN
P. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Vegetable," or From President to Postman, a satirical piece in three acts at the Cherry Lane theater, appeared to be an incredibly bad show.

It is not the fault of the make-believers who interpret the manuscript, "The Vegetable" Tex Simpson to the Federal building press room where she posed for pictures. Between yahoos of joy over her freedom, Tex revealed her shapely knees and the Reporter Who Gets a Thrill Out of Such Things chirped: "Ah, she's shouting her joy from the house tops!"

There is no hope for "The Vegetable"—not as it was done on opening night, although some critics the play bill also says, have called it a work of genius. Lee Strasberg directed it and Walter Walden arranged the settings. Louis John Latzer, as Dada, revealed some stage presence. Herman Bandes was agreeable in a less important role and there were other futile attempts by a decidedly amateurish group.

THE NEW VERSION

Notice observed on the bulletin board of a conservative New York newspaper:

"When a girl bites a man, that isn't news, either!"

HOW OFTEN

After Longfellow

THEY stood on the bridge at midnight,
In a park not far from the town;
They stood on the bridge at midnight,
Because they didn't sit down.

The moon rose o'er the city,
Behind the dark church spire;
The moon rose o'er the city,
And kept on rising higher.

How often, oh! how often
They whispered words so soft;
How often, oh! how often,
How often, oh! how oft.

POPULATION AND DIVORCE

Although divorce is on the increase in Canada, that country still has the lowest divorce rate among civilized countries—one in every 111 marriages. Divorce seems to increase rapidly in the more thickly populated lands, or in the thickly populated parts of the United States. Domestic life does not seem to go so well in big cities as in little. People to be at their best need room.

THE BONES OF COLUMBUS

Nobody is quite sure where the bones of Columbus are buried. The writer of this column was shown the tomb of San Domingo City, the oldest town in the Western Hemisphere and was assured that Columbus was indeed buried there. Others have visited the tomb of Columbus in Havana, in Seville in Spain, and now they are saying that the courageous navigator is buried 45 miles south of Badajoz, Spain. All of which teaches us the lesson of the unimportance of the human body and the immense importance of human achievement. Not only does nobody know where Columbus is buried, but nobody cares. It is not important. What the great man with great imagination does lives always.

THE AIR FUTURE

Everybody has his idea of the probable development of travel in the air. It is interesting to get the statement of E. S. Evans, vice president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, who is a practical man. He says: "I believe I speak with thoughtful conservatism when I say that a very large part of the commerce of America, five years from now, will be carried by combinations of heavier than air and lighter than air craft."

The first named class, the airplane, will fly the air routes of the country, carrying 50 to 100 passengers, with accommodations equal to or surpassing those now found in railway Pullmans. Well-lighted routes, a sufficient number of modern airports, radio beacons, gyroscopic controls and automatic devices for landing and taking off will add immeasurably to the safety of air travel.

Who's Who and Timely Views

DEVELOPMENT OF WATERWAY PLAN URGED

By JAMES W. GOOD
Secretary of War.

(James William Good was born at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 24, 1866. He is a graduate of Coe college, later obtaining an L. L. degree at the University of Michigan. From 1908 to 1908 he was city attorney of Cedar Rapids. He was elected to congress the following year from the fifth Iowa district, serving until 1923. For two terms he was chairman of the committee on appropriations. He then resumed his law practice, at Chicago, until recently, when he was appointed secretary of war by President Hoover. His home is now in Evanston, Ill. A St. Lawrence waterway suitable for ocean-going traffic can be provided for $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 after crediting the improvement with the share of costs chargeable to power.

Economists calculate that 23,000,000 tons of freight would seek this route annually.

The inland waterways of the United States are necessary to the development of the middle west. Great improvements in the Great Lakes, are by means adequate, they are saving the country more than $200,000,000 annually in transportation costs. I do not believe that the linking of the ocean with the heart of the country would work out to disadvantage of American railroads.

Consider the picture of Chicago. Here at the apex of the American Mediterranean, the wealth and opportunities of the world's richest continent are spreading at its feet. Nature's highways lead to it. The Great Lakes and Saint Lawrence river extend a generous hand of invitation to us; they fairly beseech us to co-operate in executing the most vital works that will convert them into a new Mediterranean for the newer continent. It is not even a difficult or an expensive engineering task to which they challenge us. It is far simpler and less difficult than building the Panama canal.

Not only must this whole waterways program be carried forward, but there must be no unnecessary delays. This great work of internal improvement will be carried forward as rapidly as appropriations by congress will justify. It is a vitally important link in the chain of plans for agricultural relief and will not brook of delay. A prosperous agriculture will always be essential to national welfare. Indeed, as our industrialization goes on and on, a prosperous agriculture will become more, rather than less, important to the nation.

Egg Yolks

The egg yolk is important in the diet because the protein is higher in the yolk than in the white. It is richer in mineral matter, and contains a high percentage of fat, which supplies energy.

GULLIVER

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I think that there must be more fat than thin women throughout our prosperous America. I have had for various requests I have had for various sorts of reducing treatments. Or else the thin women are more satisfied with their lot. Certainly the trend of the times is away from unhealthy superfluous flesh toward slenderness. But I hear from the fashion designers that curves are "coming in." And most people have long agreed that the pleasantest contours of all are the slimly rounded ones, whose lines are supple and strong; neither too heavy nor too delicate, and not in the least angular, nor "bunchy."

The first named class, the airplane, will fly the air routes of the country, carrying 50 to 100 passengers, with accommodations equal to or surpassing those now found in railway Pullmans. "It seems to me that such an appearance of indifference, on the part of those whom it would be natural to suppose would be most concerned, must lead to the popular conclusion that they did not regard such a state of affairs very seriously."

Just the other night when we were talking of the time when he would have his divorce, he asked me if I would marry him and I told him I would. He is always telling me how much he loves me and how he wants to make me so happy. It was his wife's fault they separated. She ran around with all kinds of fellows and left the children with anybody who would mind them. I asked him what he was going to do with the children when he got a divorce. You see, Virginia, he has them in a children's home not because he doesn't want them, but because he is living with his mother and she already has too much to do for a woman of her age. Will you please advise me as to what you think best for me to do under the circumstances?

Of course, if the man's natural objects to your marrying him, it is not just. But they probably have to see you take on the responsibilities of the care of the children at your age, and they may not be as convinced as you are that the wife was entirely to blame. Don't rush into marriage with this man as soon as he is free. Try to be sure he will make you happy and that you want to start your married life with two children to care for. No one should marry a man with little children without making up her mind to be a good mother to them, and this is not easy. In fact, it is one of the hardest things imaginable. And you are only a young girl.

"DEAR VIRGINIA: I am 20 years old and would like very much to get acquainted with a real nice young man. I am a good girl. I don't dance, but once in a while I go to the show. Do you think I could find a nice fellow?"

"Sorry that I don't know of any 'real nice fellows' pining for 'female society.' I don't give names and addresses through this column, you know."

GANDER TELLS TALES ON GOBBLER

Peter had asked a very simple question, or so it seemed to him, and Gander's excited cry right at his head made him jump.

"What's that you asked me?" queried Gander again. "Something about the rest of my wives, or did my ears deceive me?"

Then, before the boy could repeat his question, Gander began to chuckle.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D. AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Misleading Advertisers

"A relative of mine has a mild case of diabetes and I am largely responsible for his cure. So far he has taken no insulin, but under a specialist's care he has been able to keep sugar free and in fairly good health. What do you think of the advertising matter I am enclosing? I have never believed in patent medicines, but I am wondering if some of its claims are true. If they are, then why haven't doctors taken it up, especially the ones devoting their entire time to the study and treatment of diabetes?"

"MISS G."

The advertising matter which Miss G. enclosed was that of a nostrum sold by a layman, whose advertising slogan is "No more dieting; no more starvation; eat and get well."

However, when the nostrum arrives, "No more dieting; no more starvation; eat what you like" is modified by the directions in the package. "This is what is said: (The bold face is mine.)

"Of course, there are certain things like candy, ice cream, cake and pies, etc., etc., which can be classed as luxuries and which you do not need. Naturally you are not going to be foolish enough to eat sugar in large quantities while taking—"

"You want to get well as quickly as possible, therefore it is to your own interest to avoid eating things high in percentage of carbohydrates. But remember, while using—, you can eat all the food that does not produce sugar."

Now can you see what a fake this is? You can't eat all you want! You have to be on a diabetic diet. Of course, if you go to a diabetic diet, you are going to be improved anyway, and our faker can't see why you shouldn't send him $6 regularly for a bottle of simple tablets that costs him three or four cents, while you're doing it! These tablets have been analyzed by the laboratory of the American Medical Association and exposed in the Journal of the A. M. A. The tablets consist essentially of magnesia, a medication that is not used, that I know of, in diabetes.

Evidently the federal government hasn't gotten out a fraud order yet against this man. He and other men of his ilk are really criminals of the worst sort, preying upon sick people, enriching themselves at the expense of the health and the lives of sufferers.

Don't pin your faith on any advertised patent medicines, Miss G. If you are interested, we have a list of books on diabetes, written by authorities for the layman.

Mrs. W.—Your condition is not normal, and if you neglect it it may go on to something more serious. Go to a gynecologist (a physician who specializes in diseases peculiarly to women). Don't neglect yourself for if it should be cancer, the earlier you have treatment, the better are your prospects for recovery. Don't be unnecessarily frightened, for many other things much less grave than cancer can cause bleeding.

The things you have near your ear also needs investigation. It is not a wen, for a wen does not come and go.

We have an article on the Hygiene of Women which you may have by following column rules.

Puzzled—Write to me again, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and refer to what you wrote the first time. I want to get in touch with you. You did not sign your name in your first letter. (Please, all of you, sign your names and give your addresses. They will not be used in any way except as above) and I want them as evidence of good faith.)

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

An acquaintance of mine, a doctor lives in the city, but has a little country place where he retires when he has time, and enjoys farming on a small scale.

Recently he was telling of tracking a thief who had been making away with the nuts he had stored. The villain was, of course, a squirrel. The doctor caught him red handed and, in his efforts to escape, the squirrel rushed into a woodpecker's hole in a tree.

The hole, however, proved inadequate and Mr. Squirrel's bushy tail stuck out the hole. The doctor said he had a good notion to take hold of it and give it a pull, but he didn't.

"The bluejays," he said, "are always quarreling with the squirrels and like nothing better than to give the squirrel's tail a pull." I reminded him that the morals of bluejays are hardly above reproach, but he said that made no difference. They were always trying to reform the squirrels.

Not much difference between birds, animals and men, is there? We all must live, and in the face of that necessity we're always ready to do battle and find fault with our neighbors and give said neighbor's tail a pull if we think they are interfering with our business.

"MY DEAR VIRGINIA: For the past three months, or perhaps four, I have been going with an Italian fellow who is married and has two children. He has been away from his wife nearly a year and is going to get a divorce this summer. My parents object to him very much and have forbidden me to go with him. But I love him and his children very much and I have disobeyed mother and father for about the first time. They have always said I couldn't marry an Italian fellow, and if I did without their consent, they wouldn't have anything more to do with me. Of course, they don't mean that they would never talk to me or anything like that, but as if I had married someone of their choice. I am 19 and he is 24."

Just the other night when we were talking of the time when he would have his divorce, he asked me if I would marry him and I told him I would. He is always telling me how much he loves me and how he wants to make me so happy. It was his wife's fault they separated. She ran around with all kinds of fellows and left the children with anybody who would mind them. I asked him what he was going to do with the children when he got a divorce. You see, Virginia, he has them in a children's home not because he doesn't want them, but because he is living with his mother and she already has too much to do for a woman of her age. Will you please advise me as to what you think best for me to do under the circumstances?

Of course, if the man's natural objects to your marrying him, it is not just. But they probably have to see you take on the responsibilities of the care of the children at your age, and they may not be as convinced as you are that the wife was entirely to blame. Don't rush into marriage with this man as soon as he is free. Try to be sure he will make you happy and that you want to start your married life with two children to care for. No one should marry a man with little children without making up her mind to be a good mother to them, and this is not easy. In fact, it is one of the hardest things imaginable. And you are only a young girl.

"DEAR VIRGINIA: I am 20 years old and would like very much to get acquainted with a real nice young man. I am a good girl. I don't dance, but once in a while I go to the show. Do you think I could find a nice fellow?"

"Sorry that I don't know of any 'real nice fellows' pining for 'female society.' I don't give names and addresses through this column, you know."

Peter's Adventures

GANDER TELLS TALES ON GOBBLER

Peter had asked a very simple question, or so it seemed to him, and Gander's excited cry right at his head made him jump.

"What's that you asked me?" queried Gander again. "Something about the rest of my wives, or did my ears deceive me?"

Then, before the boy could repeat his question, Gander began to chuckle.

"You have never had many friends among the Wild Geese, I guess, or you never would have even suggested such a thing! I am no exception to the rule, and one wife is enough for me."

"Any Wild Gander who is not true to his first love as long as she lives is not thought very much of by the rest of his family. Where did you ever get the idea that there were 'other' wives? Did anybody tell you?"

"Not that I remember," answered the boy, "but I know Turkey Gobbler has several wives, so I took it for granted you have."

"Never take anything for granted, my dear fellow," declared Gander. "It is a very bad plan. And, for feathers' sake, don't get my habits mixed up with those of Turkey Gobbler's. I had really rather that you would not mention us in the same breath.

"Gobbler is all right in his own way, but his ways are not mine, and some of the things he does I have no patience with. For instance, I have heard I am often time again wives and if they do not do just as he says and fail to wait and tend on him and give him the finest worms they turn up, he flies at them and tears out their feathers. In my family, if one is suspicious or envious of another, it is said that he is 'as jealous as a Turkey.' And there is nothing like a Goose would rather not have said about him."

"You may not believe it, but it is true, if one can put faith in what one hears at all. Turkey's poor wives are so afraid of him that when the time comes for them to lay their eggs, they steal them to lay their eggs, and in some away by themselves, and he never makes his nests and help their wives babies out of their shell and (so I've been told) these babies have grown into quite sturdy little Turks before their father ever sees them."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MAN'S EXERCISE, GOD'S OPPORTUNITY — When my soul fainteth within me I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.—Jonah 2:7.

MIGHT CAUSE COMPLICATIONS

There is a very practical reason why the bill introduced in the senate by Cole Blease, of South Carolina, abolishing the right of foreign envoys in Washington to import liquor for personal consumption will not get anywhere. Such a piece of legislation if endorsed—and an attempt at enforcement would create all sorts of unpleasant and injurious complications—would immediately lay representatives of the United States in other lands open to retaliatory curtailment of their personal immunities and privileges by the governments to which they were accredited, and in some contingencies that might cause decidedly serious situations.

If it is true, as Senator Blease avers, that some of the attaches of foreign embassies and legations in our national capital are guilty of scandalous and perilous conduct in public, there is a way to get at them. The President can always make complaints to their chiefs, or if necessary to their governments. They are guests of the country and the least intimation from the proper official quarters that they are unpleasant guests will always be sufficient to ensure their disappearance.

A third consequence will be to start off the new judges with something more than the public's suspicion that they have obtained the ermine by pulling political wires or personal strings. "Ye shall know them by their" endorers should do much to maintain and increase that popular respect for the bench which is the beginning of rational and effective law enforcement.

APPOINTING CAPABLE JUDGES

Sending to the senate, along with the names of nominees to the federal bench, a list of their endorers, will not relieve Mr. Hoover of responsibility for his selections; but it nevertheless has certain actual and potential merits.

The number of federal judgeships falling vacant during the life of an administration is too great to be filled from a president's personal acquaintance. The range of choice is further limited by the legal necessity or popular expectation that local talent will be recognized in such appointments. A president must, therefore, depend to a large extent on the advice of others, who are personally or professionally acquainted with the qualifications of the candidates; and it is only proper that those who stand sponsor for appointive officials should assume their share of the responsibility openly and in the public eye.

A second consequence of the practice of making public the names of endorers is likely to be a falling off in the number of office-seekers who go to Washington with no other recommendation than that they have been diligent and deserving party workers, as well as in the number of influential citizens who are in the habit of urging upon presidents the claims of friends, where the reasons for their interest in the matter will not stand the light of day.

Your BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell And Mine

NEW YORK.—So many people have been telling me so many things about Joan Lowell that my ambition to be proved to be a Jew has been aroused to prove that although I am her husband, I know her, too. First, she isn't Jewish. That story was started by a moving picture agent who tried to buy her book. Personally I wish she were Jewish. She'd probably have more sense, then, and I understand Jewish women turn their money over to their husbands. I can assure you with regret, Joan's attitude on this subject is positive proof of her Christian blood. Alex Woolcott told some people that she is 30 years old. He missed it by only half a dozen years.—Thompson Buchanan.

Meaning, one presumes, that Joan is 36.

THE SQUEAL PROPER
Directly after her acquittal the Park Rowers hastened to the Federal building press room where she posed for pictures. Between yawns of joy over her freedom, Tex revealed her shapely knees and the Reporter Who Gets a Thrill Out of Such Things chirped: "Ah, she's shouting her joy from the house tops!"

"Sit down, sap!" piped another, "you're leg-weary."

ix, the play bill also says, have called it a work of genius. Lee Strasberg directed it and Walter Walden arranged the settings. Louis John Latzer, as Dada, revealed some stage presence. Herman Bandes was agreeable in a less important role and there were other futile attempts by a decidedly amateurish group.

THE NEW VERSION
Notice observed on the bulletin board of a conservative New York newspaper:

"When a girl bites a man, that isn't news, either."

HOW OFTEN
After Longfellow

THEY stood on the bridge at midnight,
In a park not far from the town;
They stood on the bridge at midnight,
Because they didn't sit down.

The moon rose o'er the city,
Behind the dark church spire;
The moon rose o'er the city,
And kept on rising higher.

How often, oh! how often
They whispered words so soft;
How often, oh! how often,
How often, oh! how oft.

Although divorce is on the increase in Canada, that country still has the lowest divorce rate among civilized countries—one in every 111 marriages. Divorce seems to increase rapidly in the more thickly populated lands, or in the thickly populated parts of the United States. Domestic life does not seem to go so well in big cities as in little. People to be at their best need room.

THE BONES OF COLUMBUS

Nobody is quite sure where the bones of Columbus are buried. The writer of this column was shown the tomb of San Domingo City, the oldest town in the Western Hemisphere, and was assured that Columbus was indeed buried there. Others have visited the tomb of Columbus in Havana, in Seville in Spain, and now they are saying that the courageous navigator is buried 45 miles south of Badajoz, Spain. All of which teaches us the lesson of the unimportance of the human body and the immense importance of human achievement. Not only does nobody know where Columbus is buried, but nobody cares. It is not important. What the great man with great imagination does lives always.

THE AIR FUTURE

Everybody has his idea of the probable development of travel in the air. It is interesting to get the statement of E. S. Evans, vice president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, who is a practical man. He says: "I believe I speak with thoughtful conservatism when I say that a very large part of the commerce of America, five years from now, will be carried by combinations of heavier than air and lighter than air craft."

"The first named class, the airplanes, will fly the air routes of the country, carrying 50 to 100 passengers, with accommodations equal to or surpassing those now found in railway Pullmans. Well-lighted routes, a sufficient number of modern airports, radio beacons, atmospheric controls and automatic devices for landing and taking off will add immeasurably to the safety of air travelers."

"Lighter than air craft—the dirigibles—will carry passengers, mail and freight to Europe, Central and South America, Hawaii and other distant lands."

DEVELOPMENT OF WATERWAY PLAN URGED

By JAMES W. GOOD
Secretary of War.

James William Good was born at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 24, 1866. He is a graduate of Coe college, later obtaining an L. L. degree at the University of Michigan. From 1906 to 1908 he was secretary of Cedar Rapids. He was elected to congress the following year from the fifth Iowa district, serving until 1923. For two terms he was chairman of the committee on appropriations. He then resumed his law practice, at Chicago, until recently, when he was appointed secretary of war by President Hoover. His home is now in Evanston, Ill.

A St. Lawrence waterway suitable for ocean-going traffic can be provided for $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 after crediting the improvement with the share of costs chargeable to power.

Economists calculate that 23,000,000 tons of freight would seek this route annually.

The inland waterways of the United States are necessary to the development of the middle west. Although improvements in the Great Lakes, are by means adequate, they are saving the country more than $200,000,000 annually in transportation costs. I do not believe that the linking of the ocean with the heart of the country by a great waterway is a disadvantage of American railroads.

Consider the picture of Chicago. Here at the apex of the American Mediterranean, the wealth and opportunities of the world's richest continent are spreading at its feet. Nature's highways lead to it. The Great Lakes and Saint Lawrence river extend the generous hand of invitation to us; they fairly beseech us to co-operate in executing the almost trivial work that will convert them into a new Mediterranean for the newer continent. It is not even a difficult or an expensive engineering task to which they challenge us. It is far simpler and less difficult than building the Panama canal.

Not only must this whole waterway program be carried forward, but there must be no unnecessary delays. This great work of internal improvement will be carried forward as rapidly as appropriations by congress will justify. It is a vitally important link in the chains of plans for agricultural relief and will not brook of delay. A prosperous agriculture will always be essential to national welfare. Indeed, as our industrialization goes on and on, a prosperous agriculture will become more, rather than less, important to the nation.

Egg Yolks

The egg yolk is important in the diet because the protein is higher in the yolk than in the white. It is richer in mineral matter, and contains a high percentage of fat, which supplies energy.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I think that there must be more fat than thin women throughout our prosperous America. I have had for various sorts of reducing treatments. Or else the thin women are more satisfied with their lot. Certainly the trend of the times is away from unhealthy superfluous flesh toward slenderness. But I hear from the fashion designers that curves are "coming in." And most people have long agreed that the pleasantest contours of all are the slimly rounded ones, whose lines are supple and strong; neither too heavy nor too delicate, and not in the least angular, nor "bunchy."

In the interest of the overweight women who are anxious to reduce to this ideal of perfection, I have arranged effective reducing measures. The arm exercises which follow are simple and, when faithfully followed, will bring excellent results. They are designed to reduce the upper arms and shoulders, especially, for this part is generally the heaviest. But they also act on the forearm, since all the arm muscles are brought into play.

Raise the arms to shoulder level, turning your palms outward. Now bend the arms at the elbow, so that they form a right angle. Keep the elbows at shoulder level and rotate the bent arms forward, so that the fingertips describe a semi-circle. Return the forearm to its right-angle position. Repeat the exercise briskly and rapidly a dozen times. You will feel an almost painful pull of the muscles at the end of this time, reducing blemish. May be added if you do not, you will know after the bath to in that you have not yet mastered the fat-dissolving process.

Isn't this a sprinkling menu? It may be used for a luncheon or for a family dinner. It is not at all hard to prepare, so busy housewives and inexperienced brides may undertake it without qualms. The peas may be fresh or canned, as you choose. The tuna fish, crab meat recipe will serve three.

Today's Recipes

Crab Meat and Tuna Au Gratin —Melt two tablespoons butter; when bubbling, stir in two tablespoons flour and add gradually one cup white stock or milk. Stir until smooth; add one egg, well beaten; one-half teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon salt and dash cayenne, and cook until thickened. Take from fire, add one cup crab meat mixed with tuna fish, and three tablespoons chopped mushrooms; mix thoroughly, place in buttered shells or casserole, cover with crumbs moistened with melted butter and bake until brown.

Suggestions

Prepared Flour

Put one cup flour in a glass baking dish and place in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 15 minutes. Stir to insure even and thorough browning. Cool. Sift and put into a perforated dredge box. A dish or two into the pan in which the meat has been cooked, stir into a paste, add a little water, season and pour over the meat.

The writer of this column was shown the tomb of San Domingo City, the oldest town in the Western Hemisphere, and was assured that Columbus was indeed buried there. Others have visited the tomb of Columbus in Havana, in Seville in Spain, and now they are saying that the courageous navigator is buried 45 miles south of Badajoz, Spain. All of which teaches us the lesson of the unimportance of the human body and the immense importance of human achievement. Not only does nobody know where Columbus is buried, but nobody cares. It is not important. What the great man with great imagination does lives always.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I think that there must be more fat than thin women throughout our prosperous America. I have had for various sorts of reducing treatments. Or else the thin women are more satisfied with their lot. Certainly the trend of the times is away from unhealthy superfluous flesh toward slenderness. But I hear from the fashion designers that curves are "coming in." And most people have long agreed that the pleasant

TROOP 40 LEADING SOFTBALL LEAGUE AMONG BOY SCOUTS

Troop No. 40, with a record of three victories and no defeats, is leading the Boy Scout Softball League. Four troops compose the league.

The stock of Troop No. 62, the newly-organized O. S. and S. O. Home troop, took a sudden rise Wednesday night when its softball team won a double-header from Troop 41 at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

The Home nine won the first game, 16 to 5 but encountered more spirited opposition in the second and barely won, 7 to 6. Blair and Schuck formed Troop 42's battery in the first game and Blair, Jones and Schuck was the battery for the second contest.

For Troop 41, Price pitched the first game with Bone catching. Short hurred the second game with Chew behind the plate. Both games were marked by heavy hitting, with the Home team getting the bulk of the hits.

Troops 41 and 45 will meet in a double-header Friday afternoon. In the evening Troop 62 will play Troop 40. Following is the standing of the teams in the league:

Team. Won. Lost. Pct.

Troop 40 3 0 1.000

Troop 62 3 1 .750

Troop 45 2 4 .333

Troop 41 1 4 .200

TWO MORE ARRESTED ACCUSED OF PARTS IN AUTO THEFT HERE

Charles Randall, 17, this city, and Clyde Hughes, 18, near Xenia, arrested by police Wednesday, are also alleged to have been implicated in the theft of an auto from Marvin Tullis, Husted, O., former Xenian, last Saturday night. The car, stripped of its accessories, was found abandoned on a country road Monday night.

Visiting Hughes' home, Patrolman Fred Jones reported finding a trunk, motor meter, windshield wiper and some tools, belonging to the stolen machine. The youth said he had no part in the actual theft of the car but that the articles had been given to him. Randall was taken into custody Wednesday night by Patrolman Ed. Craig. He denied connection with the theft and no stolen articles were found in his possession.

Hughes was released in the custody of his father and was cited to appear before Mayor Karl R. Babb Saturday morning.

Randall's case will probably be transferred to Juvenile Court for disposition.

Two other boys, Lewis Hunter, 16, and Carl Hipshire, 17, are to appear before Judge Wright Monday to answer to charges of auto theft filed by Tullis.

TRUCK STOLEN FROM OSBORN ELEVATOR

Thieves who entered the Farmer's Co-operative Grain Co. elevator garage at Osborn sometime Wednesday night stole a one-ton truck valued at $250, it was discovered Thursday morning. Entrance was gained through a door after the lock was pried off.

It is believed the same marauders were responsible for an attempted robbery of a garage conducted by J. W. Swartley at Osborn the same night. Entering the battery room after breaking a window, the intruders ransacked the place but stole nothing of value.

Authorities of the village have no clues to the perpetrators of either robbery.

BAKERY WILL OPEN IN NEW LOCATION

The Xenia Baking Co., a branch of the Wilmington Bread Co., owned by George D. Bauman, Wilmington, will be opened at 113 E. week in a building owned by George Grottenbeck, according to present plans.

Cleaning and re-decorating of the room is now in progress and the new baking concern will have a full line of bread and pastries. The company will specialize in pastries for parties. It is announced. The company recently bought the Xenia Baking Co., from George Grottenbeck and is re-opening the business in the new location.

Central Arranges Stiff Court Schedule

STRONG TEAMS WILL FACE BUCCANEERS; EIGHT HOME GAMES

Stivers, Roosevelt And
Withrow On 1929-30
Card

By PHIL FRAME
Speaking of ambitious basketball schedules, the one being announced for Xenia Central High School's "Buccaneers" for the 1929-30 season would give almost any coach a headache.

The complete court chart for the season, as announced by Faculty Manager E. G. Whitworth, calls for a total of fourteen games, including eight at home and six away.

Five new teams will be played this year, adding to the attractiveness of the schedule. They are Waynesville, Norwood, Dayton Roosevelt, Cincinnati Withrow and Dayton Stivers.

The Bucs open with Waynesville December 13 and the last regularly scheduled game preceding the regional state tournament is with Washington C. H. on the latter's floor February 28, 1930. The state tourney is March 7 and 8.

Of the five Miami Valley League games scheduled, three will be played on the home floor. Defending the league championship they have won for two straight years, the Bucs will meet Troy, Greenville and Piqua on their own floor. The Sidney and Miamisburg games will be played away.

It was also disclosed that there is a possibility that one or more games may be added to the schedule, but these would not be played at home.

The complete schedule follows: December 13—Waynesville here. December 20—Wilmington away. January 4—Cincinnati Norwood here.

January 10—Sidney away (L). January 11—Dayton Roosevelt here.

January 17—Troy here (L). January 18—Springfield away. January 24—Miamisburg away (L).

January 31—Middleton here. February 7—Cincinnati Withrow here.

February 14—Greenville here (L). February 21—Piqua here (L). February 22—Dayton Stivers away.

February 28—Washington C. H. away.

March 7-8—State Tournament.

JOHN ROBERTS DIES THURSDAY MORNING

John Roberts, 84, died at his home in Jamestown at 6:15 o'clock Thursday morning as the result of the infirmities of age.

He was born February 13, 1845 in Clark County but moved to Greene County with his parents when he was just a small boy. He spent most of his boyhood life near Grape Grove in Greene County.

Mr. Roberts is survived by two sons, E. V. Roberts, London, and Homer at home. His wife preceded him in death seven years and one son, Frank, died eleven years ago.

He was a member of the Friends Church in Jamestown. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Friends Church with burial in the Jamestown Cemetery.

RANCOCAS STABLE FUTURE ODDS DROP

NEW YORK, April 25.—The odds on the Rancocas stable's Mel Foo for the Kentucky derby have dropped from 60 to 1 to 39 to 1 in the future books. The drop in the odds was the result of Mel Foo's impressive victory in the Paumonok handicap at Jamaica Tuesday.

Mel Foo probably will start in the Wood Memorial stakes Saturday and if the colt wins again, the odds are likely to drop to 15 to 1.

ATHLETICS TURNING TABLES ON YANKEES; SETTING PACE NOW

NEW YORK, April 25.—After pursuing the New York Yankees for three seasons the Philadelphia Athletics apparently are on the verge of turning the tables on the world champions.

Instead of the Yankees setting the pace and the Athletics playing their heart out trying to catch up, the reverse may come to pass in the American League race this season.

The Athletics are riding high in front today and the Yankees are trailing in third place, with the Browns sandwiched in between. The difference in percentage points is slight but the psychological advantage for the Athletics is no small one.

The standings of the three leaders follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Athletics	4	2	.667
Browns	5	3	.625
Yankees	3	2	.600

The early fortunes of the race favor the Athletics. Connie Mack has his ball club in far better

GREENWICH GHOSTS
RAISED AS DANCING
HALL CONSTRUCTED

NEW YORK, April 25.—Greenwich Village, now a place of arty garrets, cellars and beaneries and playground of visiting college boys, once was New York's Negro center.

The ghosts of that far-off time, when dark Harlem was a wooded fringe where Indians lurked, menacing the rocky farms toward the south, were raised recently when workmen dug deep into the debris of the pre-revolutionary war Negro colony in setting the foundation of the Dome, the Village's newest dancing and eating place.

The last of the shacks and stables of the Colonial Negroes were rudely demolished and carted away, but among the thin dust that arose most have been the shade of Manuel Gerrit.

Manuel Gerrit was a giant Negro, who measured seven feet and weighed more than 300 pounds and he was twice hanged on that spot. The giant was one of a group of nine slaves imported directly from Africa. One of them was murdered in the night by his companions. The remaining eight embarrassed the authorities by confessing that they were all guilty of the murder.

Too much money was tied up in the slaves to hang them all and it was decided to let one Negro, chosen by lot, "suffer for all."

Manuel Gerrit drew the black bean. On his execution day a great crowd collected to see the giant swing. But his weight broke the temporary gallows and he fell to the ground unhurt. Hasty repairs were made and he was again dropped through the trap. This time he snapped the rope and rolled to the feet of the spectators, purple and choking.

The crowd, in a hysterical frenzy above which could be heard the screams of women and the prayers of a preacher threatened to riot if a third attempt were made and it was determined to let the man loose.

Gerrit received permission to build a shack on the spot where they tried to hang him. He considered the place lucky. He lived to a ripe old age and became the chief of the small group of elderly slaves freed by the settlers as superannuated.

These patriarchal Negroes became custodians of New York's cattle, which they grazed and guarded from the Indians. They drove the cows daily along Sand Hill Road, across to Broadway and down to the fine pasture which is now Washington Square.

This is believed to be New York's original "when such-and-such a place was way uptown" story.

JACOB HAYNES IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Jacob Haynes, 79, died at his home near Lumberton at 9 o'clock Wednesday night from heart trouble. He had been bedfast for the last ten days.

Mr. Haynes was born and lived his entire life on the farm where he died. Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Ernest Starbuck, at home, and a brother, Samuel, who lives on an adjoining farm. He also leaves a number of nephews and nieces living in Greene County.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in charge of the Rev. S. D. Chancellor with interment in Sugar Grove cemetery at Wilmington.

CLEVELAND HIGH IN MANUFACTURING

CLEVELAND, April 25.—Cleveland and Cuyahoga County produce more than one-fifth of the manufactured products of Ohio, according to figures released recently by the industrial committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

Ohio ranks fourth in the nation in the value of products and the number of workers employed. New York ranks first, Pennsylvania second, Illinois third, Ohio fourth and Michigan, New Jersey, and Massachusetts ranking next in order.

OLD AUTO HOODS ARE NOW CHICKEN COOPS

PIERPONT, April 25.—Amos Tanner's inventive mind has found a use for hood covers of ancient automobiles that amount to little as scrap iron.

On the Tanner farm here are many chicken coops made from the discarded hood covers. A few boards fastened over the ends, with a hole cut for an entrance, and the chicken has a durable, comfortable nesting place.

The louvers in the side of the "bonnet" furnish ample ventilation but at the same time exclude the rain. The coop is practically inaccessible to prowling vermin.

OF NEW KONJOLA

"Konjola Is All That Saved My Life," Declares Happy Man who Had Suffered For Years.

"Konjola is all that saved my life, and my praise for this new medicine cannot be too high," said Mr. Frank Ruper, 52, of the Soldiers' Home, Dayton.

"I am a veteran of the Spanish-

American and World War and was never able to get the slightest relief from stomach trouble, kidney trouble, rheumatism and neuritis. I couldn't eat or sleep. I didn't have any energy or ambition. I found my condition growing worse every day and was greatly discouraged.

"One of my comrades urged me to try this new Konjola, and today I am enjoying perfect health. All the aches and pains have disappeared. My liver system has been cleansed and toned up. My kidneys and stomach function perfectly now and the rheumatism and neuritis pains have disappeared. I am enjoying perfect health, and I owe it all to Konjola, the master medicine of them all."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —Adv.

Manuel Gerrit drew the black bean. On his execution day a great crowd collected to see the giant swing. But his weight broke the temporary gallows and he fell to the ground unhurt. Hasty repairs were made and he was again dropped through the trap. This time he snapped the rope and rolled to the feet of the spectators, purple and choking.

The crowd, in a hysterical frenzy above which could be heard the screams of women and the prayers of a preacher threatened to riot if a third attempt were made and it was determined to let the man loose.

Gerrit received permission to build a shack on the spot where they tried to hang him. He considered the place lucky. He lived to a ripe old age and became the chief of the small group of elderly slaves freed by the settlers as superannuated.

These patriarchal Negroes became custodians of New York's cattle, which they grazed and guarded from the Indians. They drove the cows daily along Sand Hill Road, across to Broadway and down to the fine pasture which is now Washington Square.

This is believed to be New York's original "when such-and-such a place was way uptown" story.

WAR VETERAN LAUDS POWERS OF NEW KONJOLA

"Konjola is All That Saved My Life," Declares Happy Man who Had Suffered For Years.

"Konjola is all that saved my life, and my praise for this new medicine cannot be too high," said Mr. Frank Ruper, 52, of the Soldiers' Home, Dayton.

"I am a veteran of the Spanish-

MR. FRANK RUPER

American and World War and was never able to get the slightest relief from stomach trouble, kidney trouble, rheumatism and neuritis. I couldn't eat or sleep. I didn't have any energy or ambition. I found my condition growing worse every day and was greatly discouraged.

"One of my comrades urged me to try this new Konjola, and to-day I am enjoying perfect health. All the aches and pains have disappeared. My inter system has been cleansed and toned up. My kidneys and stomach function perfectly now and the rheumatism and neuritis pains have disappeared. I am enjoying perfect health, and I owe it all to Konjola, the master medicine of them all."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —Adv.

JACOB HAYNES IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Jacob Haynes, 79, died at his home near Lumberton at 9 o'clock Wednesday night from heart trouble. He had been bedfast for the last ten days.

Mr. Haynes was born and lived his entire life on the farm where he died.

Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Ernest Starbuck, at home, and a brother, Samuel, who lives on an adjoining farm. He also leaves a number of nephews and nieces living in Greene County.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in charge of the Rev. S. D. Chancellor with interment in Sugar Grove cemetery at Wilmington.

CLEVELAND HIGH IN MANUFACTURING

CLEVELAND, April 25.—Cleveland and Cuyahoga County produce more than one-fifth of the manufactured products of Ohio, according to figures released recently by the industrial committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

Ohio ranks fourth in the nation in the value of products and the number of workers employed. New York ranks first, Pennsylvania second, Illinois third, Ohio fourth and Michigan, New Jersey, and Massachusetts ranking next in order.

OLD AUTO HOODS ARE NOW CHICKEN COOPS

PIERPONT, April 25.—Amos Tanner's inventive mind has found a use for hood covers of ancient automobiles that amount to little as scrap iron.

On the Tanner farm here are many chicken coops made from the discarded hood covers. A few boards fastened over the ends, with a hole cut for an entrance, and the chicken has a durable, comfortable nesting place.

The louvers in the side of the "bonnet" furnish ample ventilation but at the same time exclude the rain. The coop is practically inaccessible to prowling vermin.

Still better Frigidaires at still lower prices

Savings of as much as $90
on some models

THE Frigidaire compressor is incredibly quiet... so quiet that you don't hear it start, stop, or run. Yet it is powered to freeze ice cubes and desserts easily and quickly... powered to maintain low uniform temperatures winter and summer... year after year.

And the compressor is out of sight and out of the way... placed in the bottom of the cabinet or in the basement, whichever you prefer.

Then there are many other distinctive features. The freezing trays, for instance, are self-sealing. The new Cold Control, an exclusive Frigidaire development, makes it possible for you to freeze ice faster, to make many delicious desserts that require extreme cold.

And from top to bottom, the interior is arranged to save you time, work and trouble. Shelves are removable and are waist-high from the floor. No stooping is necessary. The lining is of seamless porcelain enamel with rounded corners... clean and easy to keep clean.

Call at our display room and see the New Frigidaire. Let us tell you about the new low prices... reductions that offer savings as great as $90 on some models.

OHIO GRANDMOTHER STAGES DAILY TEA PARTY FOR 60 YEARS

LOTAIN, O., April 25.—Mrs. Amelia C. Faragher, 86, has the unique record of being hostess at a tea party at her home here every day for the past sixty years.

Morning visitors at "Grandma" Faragher's home will find her diligently tending her large tea-kettle. She is always prepared to entertain guests—from three to twenty—who drop in for a brief conversation and to inquire of her health.

The custom was begun by Mrs. Faragher's husband, three score years ago, in the same little farmhouse where "Grandma" now lives. He used to come in from the field in the middle of the morning and spend a half hour or so sipping the drink for which his widow has become famous.

After Faragher died, the daily tea party was continued by their children and grandchildren who grew up into the privilege of "tea at Gram's."

Bobby Baker, one of Mrs. Faragher's little grandchildren, has been punctual at the traditional social event for four years. He is six years old. For a while Bobby couldn't understand why his teacher refused to excuse him so he wouldn't be late at "Gram's" for tea.

Mrs. Faragher is an ideal hostess. An interesting conversationalist, she discourses on a variety of subjects and is careful not to bore her guests with inconsequential matters.

The weather may be inclement, storms may blow, rain or shine—it doesn't matter—because "Grandma" Faragher says she plans to continue her tea parties for at least ten more years.

Farm Notes

NEED NITROGEN

Nitrogen starvation of greenhouse crops, which is common in the spring, retards the growth of plants and fruits, reduces yields and delays ripening. The remedy is frequent applications of a nitrogen carrying fertilizer.

With the coming of longer periods of daylight and greater amounts of sunshine, greenhouse crops can utilize larger amounts of nitrogen. Nitrogen deficiencies are already beginning to appear in some commercial tomato houses, according to I. C. Hoffman, assistant horticulturist in charge of vegetable greenhouse investigations for the Ohio Experiment Station. If these conditions are not corrected they steadily become worse.

The symptoms of nitrogen starvation are a slowing up of the growth in the tops and smaller stems and leaves, the blossom buds are slower in maturing and as conditions become more severe the buds turn yellow and drop off. Sometimes the blossoms open and are pollinated and fruits set, but they do not develop. As nitrogen starvation becomes more acute, the web of the leaves and finally the veins become yellowish green. Another symptom, under the influence of bright sunlight and cool temperatures, is the formation of a purplish color throughout the upper part of the plants.

The application of a nitrogen carrying fertilizer, as calcium nitrate, nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia or an equivalent, every week or ten days at the rate of 250 to 300 pounds per acre or one-half to three-fourths pound per 100 square feet will restore the plants to normal growth and production. Nitrogen speeds up growth and normal ripening of the fruits and surprisingly good results follow systematic feeding of the crop from the first signs of any lack of nitrogen till the last of the crop is harvested.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Funeral services for Charles Franklin Gibbons, who died in Dayton last April 9, will be held Saturday afternoon. The body had been placed in a receiving vault at Woodland Cemetery April 13, awaiting the arrival of a sister, Mrs. Oral Hess, who was in Florida. The family will meet in Xenia at 2:30 p. m. Saturday and interment will be made at Miami Cemetery, Corwin, O., preceded by a short service at the grave.

NEED NITROGEN

Nitrogen starvation of greenhouse crops, which is common in the spring, retards the growth of plants and fruits, reduces yields and delays ripening. The remedy is frequent applications of a nitrogen carrying fertilizer.

With the coming of longer periods of daylight and greater amounts of sunshine, greenhouse crops can utilize larger amounts of nitrogen. Nitrogen deficiencies are already beginning to appear in some commercial tomato houses, according to I. C. Hoffman, assistant horticulturist in charge of vegetable greenhouse investigations for the Ohio Experiment Station. If these conditions are not corrected they steadily become worse.

The symptoms of nitrogen starvation are a slowing up of the growth in the tops and smaller stems and leaves, the blossom buds are slower in maturing and as conditions become more severe the buds turn yellow and drop off. Sometimes the blossoms open and are pollinated and fruits set, but they do not develop. As nitrogen starvation becomes more acute, the web of the leaves and finally the veins become yellowish green. Another symptom, under the influence of bright sunlight and cool temperatures, is the formation of a purplish color throughout the upper part of the plants.

The application of a nitrogen carrying fertilizer, as calcium nitrate, nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia or an equivalent, every week or ten days at the rate of 250 to 300 pounds per acre or one-half to three-fourths pound per 100 square feet will restore the plants to normal growth and production. Nitrogen speeds up growth and normal ripening of the fruits and surprisingly good results follow systematic feeding of the crop from the first signs of any lack of nitrogen till the last of the crop is harvested.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Funeral services for Charles Franklin Gibbons, who died in Dayton last April 9, will be held Saturday afternoon. The body had been placed in a receiving vault at Woodland Cemetery April 12, awaiting the arrival of a sister, Mrs. Oral Hess, who was in Florida. The family will meet in Xenia at 2:30 p. m. Saturday and interment will be made at Miami Cemetery, Corwin, O., preceded by a short service at the grave.

When your Children Cry for It

Here's relief and comfort for crying, fretful, feverish babies or children that you don't need to urge or command them to take. They love the delicious taste of Fletcher's Castoria. Your doctor will tell you it's absolutely safe, so you can give it as freely and as often as needed to keep your children happy and well. A few drops is all it takes to quiet fretful, feverish, colicky babies; relieve their biliousness, gas on stomach, constipation, etc.; soothe them to sleep in a jiffy. For like disorders in older children, you simply use a little larger dose of the same reliable Fletcher's Castoria. Don't use grown-folks' medicine; with babies or children, specialists say. Ninety per cent of their recommend Fletcher's Castoria; and thirty years of steadily increasing popularity proves they're right. To protect you from imitations, the Fletcher signature is on every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria.

assistant state girls club leader, both of Ohio State University, explained the new Girls Clothing Club Project to fourteen club leaders at the Farm Bureau Office, Wednesday. Nine townships were represented and it is planned to have clothing clubs in every township in the county. The two projects "Girls Like to Make" and "Summer Girls for Girls" are entirely new and according to the leaders are a great improvement over the previous clothing projects. The clothing clubs of the county held the record for completions last year with 256 members exhibiting at the county fair.

FOREIGN VETERANS ORGANIZE POST IN XENIA WEDNESDAY

Temporary organization of Hugh McFadden post, No. 1662, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was effected at a meeting of thirty-one Green County veterans of various wars at the O. S. and S. O. Home Army Wednesday night. Frank W. Weiss, a Spanish-American War veteran, was elected commander of the local post. Other officers elected are: John Cyphers, senior vice-commander; Harry Sheets, junior vice-commander; Charles McDaniel, adjutant; Dr. William Bell, chaplain; and Perry D. Swindler, quartermaster.

The post is being named after the late Hugh McFadden, this city, a Spanish-American War veteran, and the organization will hold meetings the first and third Mondays of every month at the armory of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard. Permanent organization will be effected at a later meeting, it is announced.

CHARITIES ASSIST FAMILY OF VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. Sarah Brittingham and her five children, made fatherless by the death of Clarence Brittingham, 38, of 183 N. Chicago Ave., Columbus, former Xenian, who died at St. Francis Hospital in Columbus at 6:45 a. m. Tuesday from a skull fracture and broken shoulder sustained in an auto accident seven days ago, were supplied with clothing Wednesday by the supplementary service department of the Columbus Community Fund.

This fund is working with the city division of charities in caring for the family.

Funeral services for Brittingham were held Thursday afternoon at the home of James Dillard, 312 N. Miami Ave., this city, with interment in Woodland Cemetery. The funeral expenses will be paid by the Rail-Light Co.

Brittingham was injured fatally April 17 when his auto collided with a street car at West Broad St. and Binns Blvd. He never entirely regained consciousness following the accident.

The family came to Columbus about a month ago from Springfield, O.

FLYER JOINS STAFF OF GOODYEAR FIRM

AKRON, April 25.—Lieut. Commander John Farnsworth, U. S. Navy, holder of both the heavier-than-air and lighter-than-air pilot's ratings, has become a pilot member of the airship operations staff of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Lieut. Commander Farnsworth was in destroyer service during the war and had command of a destroyer prior to embarking on an aviation career in 1919. After graduating from an aviation engineering course at Massachusetts Tech he organized the first air squadron at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

He also was an aviation officer on the staff of Admiral McKean, was commander of the Sixth Observation squadron, and was in charge of ground school work at the Pensacola Naval Air Station.

TWO CANDIDATES TO BE NATURALIZED IN COURT NEXT MONTH

Rudolph Broda, associate professor of social science at Antioch College, and Miss Alice Bingle, Antioch student, are scheduled to become naturalized citizens of the United States sometime in May.

Prof. Broda, a native of Austria, and Miss Bingle, native of England, are the only two applicants for formal admittance as citizens and they will take their final examination early next month in Common Pleas Court.

If they are successful in the examination, which will probably be conducted by Edward J. Kennedy, Cincinnati representative of the department of interior, they will swear allegiance to this country and be formally admitted as citizens by Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Both applicants landed in New York, Prof. Broda September 9, 1923 and Miss Bingle November 3, 1919.

Prof. Broda is a graduate of the University of Vienna.

TWO RE-APPOINTED TO VISITING BOARD

Mrs. Leona G. Brewer, Yellow Springs, and Mrs. Della H. Snodgrass, Xenia, were re-appointed members of the Board of Visitors of Greene County for terms of three years by Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday. The appointments become effective May 1.

Other board members whose terms do not expire are: Mrs. Alice Zeiner, Jamestown; Mrs.

MT. TABOR

Sarah G. Haller, Xenia; W. J. Oglesbee, Xenia, and the Rev. W. P. Harriman, Cedarville.

On last Sunday several of the relatives and friends of Mr. Chant Ford gathered at his home and gave him quite a surprise, reminding him of his birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linkhart of Xenia, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Linkhart and daughter, Priscilla and Harper Linkhart of Union; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hemstead of near Wilmington, Mr. and Mrs. Foy Ford and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marley Ford and son, and Mrs. Laura Ford all of near Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolary and family and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ford and family. All came with well-filled baskets of good things to eat and a pleasant day was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hook and family of near New Jasper.

At the church Sunday April 28: Sunday School at 2 o'clock, F. M. Buckwalter, Supt. Preaching at 3 p. m., Rev. W. N. Mantle, pastor. Also special music by a quartet from the Bowersville Christian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones and family attended the funeral services of Mrs. Jones' aunt, Mrs. George Shoemaker of Highland County, Saturday.

The Doctor says—

"These days getting ahead means travelling fast—and just because a man can't have winged feet is no reason why they should drag like a couple of chunks of lead."

Most men have good feet but don't give them a chance. They wear shoes that make the feet toe-out. That is all wrong and is bound to cause trouble.

Toe-in and walk straight and you're on the highway to bigger things.

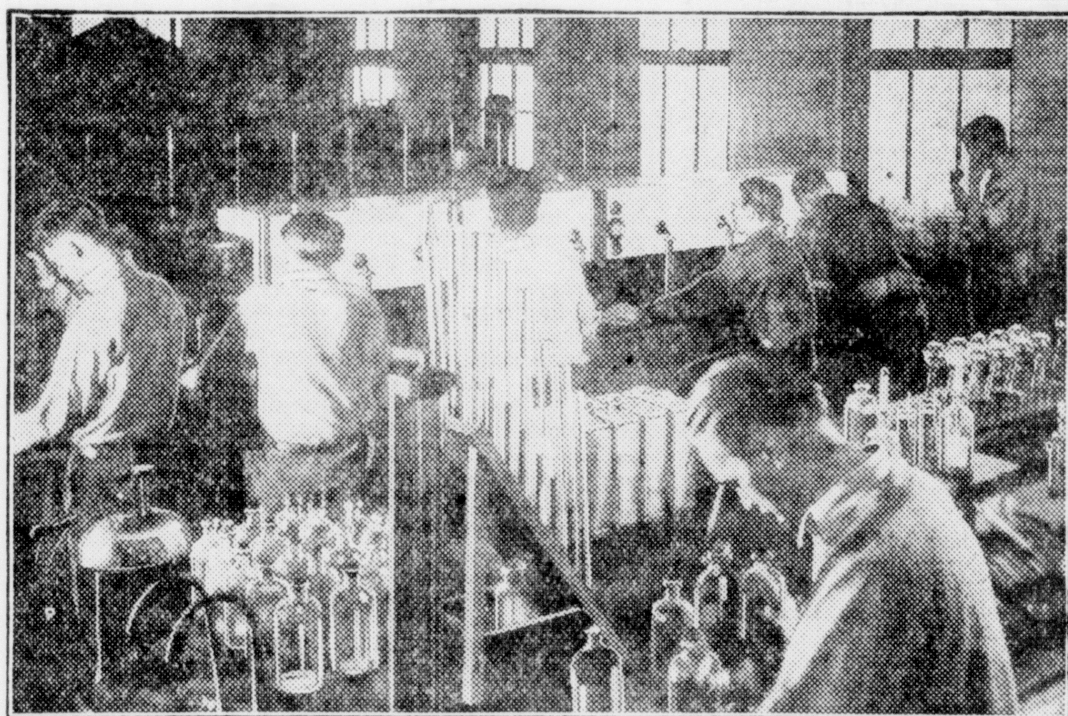

And that is exactly what the Doctor Shoe does—helps you toe-in and walk straight.

CHARITIES ASSIST FAMILY OF VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. Sarah Brittingham and her five children, made fatherless by the death of Clarence Brittingham, 38, of 183 N. Chicago Ave., Columbus, former Xenian, who died at St. Francis Hospital in Columbus at 6:45 a. m. Tuesday from a skull fracture and broken shoulder sustained in an auto accident seven days ago, were supplied with clothing Wednesday by the supplementary service department of the Columbus Community Fund.

This fund is working with the city division of charities in caring for the family.

Funeral services for Brittingham were held Thursday afternoon at the home of James Dillard, 312 N. Miami Ave., this city, with interment in Woodland Cemetery. The funeral expenses will be paid by the Rail-Light Co.

Brittingham was injured fatally April 17 when his auto collided with a street car at West Broad St. and Blinn Blvd. He never regained consciousness following the accident.

The family came to Columbus about a month ago from Springfield, O.

FLYER JOINS STAFF OF GOODYEAR FIRM

AKRON, April 25.—Lieut. Commander John Farnsworth, U. S. Navy, holder of both the heavier-than-air and lighter-than-air pilot's ratings, has become a pilot member of the airship operations staff of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Lieut. Commander Farnsworth was in destroyer service during the war and had command of a destroyer prior to embarking on an aviation career in 1919. After graduating from an aviation engineering course at Massachusetts Tech he organized the first air squadron at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

He also was an aviation officer on the staff of Admiral McKean, was commander of the Sixth Observation squadron, and was in charge of ground school work at the Pensacola Naval Air Station.

TWO CANDIDATES TO BE NATURALIZED IN COURT NEXT MONTH

Rudolph Broda, associate professor of social science at Antioch College, and Miss Alice Bingle, Antioch student, are scheduled to become naturalized citizens of the United States sometime in May.

Prof. Broda, a native of Austria, and Miss Bingle, native of England, are the only two applicants for formal admittance as citizens and they will take their final examination early next month in Common Pleas Court.

If they are successful in the examination, which will probably be conducted by Edward J. Kennedy, Cincinnati, representative of the department of interior, they will swear allegiance to this country and be formally admitted as citizens by Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Both applicants landed in New York, Prof. Broda September 9, 1923 and Miss Bingle November 3, 1919.

Prof. Broda is a graduate of the University of Vienna.

TWO RE-APPOINTED TO VISITING BOARD

Mrs. Leona G. Brewer, Yellow Springs, and Mrs. Della H. Snodgrass, Xenia, were re-appointed members of the Board of Visitors of Greene County for terms of three years by Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday. The appointments become effective May 1.

Other board members whose terms do not expire are: Mrs. Alice Zeiner, Jamestown; Mrs. Jones Says: "The eternal triangle is usually caused by some one not being on the square."

You get a square deal here. The customer is always right. We have side opening cedarized bags with hanger. Price 25c.

Sarah G. Haller, Xenia; W. J. Oglesbee, Xenia, and the Rev. W. P. Harriman, Cedarville.

On last Sunday several of the relatives and friends of Mr. Chant Ford gathered at his home and gave him quite a surprise, reminding him of his birthday.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linkhart of Xenia, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Linkhart and daughter, Priscilla and Harper Linkhart of Union; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hemstead of near Wilmington, Mr. and Mrs. Foy Ford and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marley Ford and son, and Mrs. Laura Ford all of near Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolary and family and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ford and family. All came with well filled baskets of good things to eat and a pleasant day was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hook and family of near New Jasper.

At the church Sunday April 28: Sunday School at 2 o'clock, F. M. Buckwalter, Supt. Preaching at 3 p. m., Rev. W. N. Mantle, pastor. Also special music by a quartet from the Bowersville Christian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones and family attended the funeral services of Mrs. Jones' aunt, Mrs. George Shoemaker of Highland County, Saturday.

The Doctor says—

"These days getting ahead means travelling fast—and just because a man can't have winged feet is no reason why they should drag like a couple of chunks of lead."

Most men have good feet but don't give them a chance. They wear shoes that make the feet toe-out. That is all wrong and is bound to cause trouble.

Toe-in and walk straight and you're on the highway to bigger things.

And that is exactly what the Doctor Shoe does—helps you toe-in and walk straight.

twister's devastating force. Slocum is a farming community of about 300 population. The homeless were sheltered under tents.

P. E. Denison, 18, gave the first eye-witness account of the cyclone. Denison stood about twenty-five yards from the edge of the storm's path and saw it swoop down on the town.

"I saw the storm strike the edge of the town, picking up trees and small buildings as it swept on toward the business blocks," Denison said. "Houses crumpled into kindling, driverless automobiles careened about the streets. All the time I could hear screams and see people running about dodging flying trees and wreckage. The wind passed over the village schools and left them flat."

HOLLIS, Okla., April 25.—Forty race horse stables under construction at the fairground here were demolished and several buildings unroofed by a severe windstorm which swept Hollis last night. N. L. Essar, workman, was injured when he was caught in the wreckage of one of the stables.

OMAHA, Neb., April 25.—Two persons were injured in a tornado which swept through Butler County, Nebraska, late yesterday. Claude Bull, a telephone lineman who was doing repair work in the storm district, was reported missing.

The injured, Jesse Howe, farmer, of David City, and Edward Stearnes, of the same town. An extension line in western Nebraska was swept by high winds, rain and snow.

JURY GIVES MARE'S OWNER $175 IN SUIT
Because a gray mare which he had purchased at public auction from Clarence Mangan for $141 and kicking mare instead of being a sound quiet worker in every respect as represented, Melvin J. Hansell was awarded $175 by a jury in Common Pleas Court Wednesday.

Hansell sued Mangan for $245, charging the mare is practically worthless as a work horse.

The jury arrived at its decision after deliberating about three hours. Nine of the twelve jurors concurred in the verdict.

UNDERGROUND

BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

Copyright, 1929, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:
The plot concerns some weird underground noises beneath a supposedly haunted house in Byford Moor. One day, Brown, a romantic young clerk, heard a rough-looking fellow say to another man: "After her! And if she's troublesome, don't be particular what you do to her!" Brown trails the girl to the haunted house at night. He meets the girl in the house and warns her. Exploring the house, a locked door is broken down and a rigid body pitches out. Brown's two companions, Rupert and Charlie, after finding their stolen car, go to the village inn for the night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV
They went to bed early at the Yellow Stag. The amiable host, a God-fearing man despite the fact that he sold liquor, was happiest when he could forget the trying little responsibilities of running a sleepy inn, and was free to sink flabbily between his sheets. If one could have analyzed his philosophy, one would probably have discovered a strong leaning towards the restful condition of death, but, until that blessed condition was attained, the usual strong objection to the process of dying.

The maid who did most of the work at the inn, however, had no leaning towards death. When she went to her little bedroom, with its small window overlooking the road, she did not dwell on the glories of death, but on the glories of life. All day she cooked and served and scrubbed and polished, but for two hours each night—from ten to midnight—she lived with dukes and duchesses, and wandered in blue silk through marble halls. Kindly authors fed her imagination, and colored her dreams.

Usually, no one interrupted her two hours of literary living. On this night, however, "The Temptation of Lady Violet" was considerably disturbed. While Lady Violet was walking through an ancestral corridor in her night dress, a car purring round a corner in the Yellow Stag, and just as Lady Violet was stretching a lily-white, brilliantly manicured hand towards a rich purple curtain, the front bell of the Yellow Stag tinkled.

Lady Violet hesitated. Should she pull the curtain aside? Her temptation was great this night. But the bell tinkled again, and she temporarily saved her. The maid who was following her temptation, with all her heart that she hoped with all her heart that she would be tempted, suddenly sat up and listened.

The bell tinkled a third time. "A nice thing, at this time of night!" frowned the maid. But she was a faithful soul—less weak when tempted than Lady Violet—and, business being business, and not too much of it at that, she slipped out of her warm bed and put on her night dressing gown. It was an historic dressing gown, and had belonged to her mother when her father had gone a-wooing.

Faded red for shimmering blue silk, and dull, unkempt nails for high-polished ones; yet the maid's mission was far more honorable than Lady Violet's gait, she descended the well-worn stairs and, candle in hand, crossed the hall below to the front door. She unbolted and opened the door—and then, for a moment, Fate did smile upon her.

She had expected a dull commercial traveler. Instead, a well-set young man, with handsome features not unlike those of her honorable Lord Maple-Hurlingham, stood before her. His smile as well as his features disarmed the maid, and caused her to forget her discontent.

"I'm fearfully sorry for troubling you at this disagreeable hour," said the young man, who was not unlike Lord Maple-Hurlingham, "but can we get a room here for the night?"

"Yes, sir," replied the maid, who would have turned out of her own if need be when spoken to in so gentlemanly a fashion, so different from that sultry beast who barked at her a week ago. "There's rooms, sir, to spare."

"Splendid! We're in luck!" exclaimed the visitor, and turned to a companion behind him. "All serene, Charlie—we won't have to sleep in the road. Then he turned back to the maid. "How about our car?"

"The gate to the gerizide is just round the side there," answered the maid. "I'll have it open for you in 'arf a minute."

She disappeared, and Rupert returned to Charlie, who was waiting by a car.

"Where's Juliet gone?" inquired Charlie.

"To get a key or something," said Rupert. "This looks rather a jolly inn. We'll probably find it quite picturesque in tomorrow's sunlight."

"Meanwhile, Juliet, herself, from the little glimpse I got of her, supplies an arresting picture," murmured Charlie.

"Shut up!" frowned Rupert; "or she'll hear you!"

A few moments later, the gate round the side swung back, and the Armstrong-Siddeley was put to its well-earned rest. Back in the hall, Charlie made a tentative suggestion.

"I don't suppose," he remarked to the maid, "it's possible to get a tiny bite before turning?"

It would not have been possible, had Charlie been alone, but when you have a companion who resembles Lord Maple-Hurlingham, you can count on practically anything.

"I could get you a bit of cold meat, and some cheese," breathed the maid.

"What—at eleven o'clock?" exclaimed Rupert, with subtle admiration.

"You shall 'ave it in two ticks, if you'll jest go in the coffee room," answered the maid, all agog to provide the miracle.

And it proved to be a very worthy miracle. To the cold meat and the cheese were added pickles, bread, butter, lettuce, and biscuits, with a fruit piece in the form of a not quite ripe tomato.

The maid showed no disposition to retire from the room while they ate, and the two guests utilized the occasion.

"Charming district, this," began Rupert.

"Yes, sir," replied the maid. "But quiet, like."

"It's certainly quiet," agreed Rupert.

"We've hardly met a soul," added Charlie.

"Ah, but you'd hardly expect to meet many people at this time of night, would you?" suggested Rupert, turning to Charlie, while still watching the maid out of the corner of his eye.

"That's admitted, Charlie, also," admitted Charlie, who claimed the corner of his eye. "All the same, I shouldn't think you'd meet many people even in the day time in some of the lanes we've been through."

"That one we got lost in, for instance," said Rupert.

"Yes—the one with the empty house," nodded Charlie.

"The empty house we inquired at, you mean?"

"Yes, there's a gloomy spot for you if you like!"

As the maid did not take the bait, Rupert resumed, after a short pause:

"What do you think of that? We called at an empty house to find out the way."

This observation being addressed to the red-robed attendant, she was constrained to reply:

"You never!"

"Yes, we did. It was on the road to some old, disused mines, I think."

"The lower road, I believe the porter called it," interposed Charlie.

"That's right. Lower moor road. Gloomy old house on the right side of the road. Wonder if you know it?"

"Would it be Coomber 'Ouse, I wonder now?" queried the maid.

"Ah, that's the name!" cried Rupert. "Coomber House. I'll bet it's haunted!"

Again the maid proved disappointing. At least, she said nothing. But perhaps her eyes spoke.

"Tell us—is it?" demanded Charlie, blatantly, since subtly had failed.

"Well, sir—there's some think it is," replied the maid.

"No! Really?"

"Ay, sir. We've got a gentleman stayin' with us now who says it is. I think he belongs to the Physical Research, or some such name. There's supposed to be dead miners there, lamps and all."

"Well, I'm dashed!" exclaimed Charlie.

"Do you believe it?" asked Rupert. "Tell us some more!"

PECULIAR LAPSE OF MEMORY AFFLICTS AIMEE AS WITNESS

napping story was a "hoax" to cover up her visit at the Carmel-by-the-sea cottage of Kenneth G. Ormiston, her radio operator.

Assemblyman Walter Little broke the silence which followed Mrs. McPherson's entry. His questions were put rapidly.

She smiled easily and slowly answered "I cannot remember."

Her questioning lasted for five minutes, during which Assemblyman Little failed to gain one definite answer.

Little referred directly to the charge that Judge Hardy had aided Mrs. McPherson during the grand jury investigation of her kidnapping story. For this aid, the state charges, Mrs. McPherson paid Judge Hardy $2,500. The accused jurist contends he accepted the money as a "love offering."

Little first asked the evangelist if she ever had any conversations with Judge Hardy concerning the story of R. A. McKinley, Lind Long Beach attorney, who claimed that two of Mrs. McPherson's "kidnappers" had called upon him and offered to deliver the evangelist for $25,000 ransom.

"I cannot remember," Mrs. McPherson answered.

"Did Judge Hardy ever tell you that he was going to call upon a newspaperman, Wallace Moore, at Santa Barbara?" the prosecutor asked.

Moore testified that he had known Mrs. McPherson as Ormiston's companion in an automobile which he had stopped at Santa Barbara during the evangelist's disappearance.

The witness withheld her answer while state and defense counsel argued over the question. She was told to answer.

"Well, someone asked me," she replied. "My husband was Judge Hardy or maybe it was mother."

"But no," she corrected. "It couldn't have been the judge because I never saw him after the check—the gift—was given him."

Her assurance left her momentarily as she stumbled over the words "check" and "gift" but she was herself again in a moment despite the buzz of comment which followed the statement.

Prosecutor Little then showed the witness her testimony at the state assembly hearing in Los Angeles in which she testified Judge Hardy had told her he was going to call on her before leaving on his vacation.

"That was my best recollection at that time," she said.

Then, "My husband" cannot remember "to Little's last question, the evangelist left the stand. State and defense then rested their cases, leaving for today only final arguments. Judge Hardy, it was said, will make a brief argument in his own behalf.

UNDERGROUND

BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

Copyright, 1929, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

The plot concerns some weird underground noises beneath a supposedly haunted house in Byford Moor. One day, Brown, a romantic young clerk, heard a rough-looking fellow say to another man: "After her! And—if she's troublesome—don't be particular what you do to her!" Brown trails the girl to the haunted house at night. He meets the girl in the house and warns her. Exploring the house, a locked door is broken down and a rigid body pitches out. Brown's two companions, Rupert and Charlie, are finding their stolen car, go to the village inn for the night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV
They went to bed early at the Yellow Stag. The amiable host, a God-fearing man despite the fact that he sold liquor, was happy when he could forget the trying little responsibilities of running a sleazy business and was free to sink happily between his sheets. If one could have analyzed his philosophy, one would probably have discovered a strong leaning towards the restful condition of death, but, until that blessed condition was attained, the usual strong objection to the process of dying.

The maid who did most of the work at the inn, however, had no leaning towards death. When she went to her little bedroom, with its small window overlooking the road, she did not dwell on the glories of death, but on the glories of life. All day she cooked and served and scrubbed and polished, but two hours each night, from ten to midnight—she lived with dukes and duchesses, and wandered in blue silk through marble halls. Kindly authors fed her imagination, and colored her dreams.

Usually, no one interrupted her two hours of literary living. On this night, however, "The Temptation of Lady Violet" was considerably disturbed. While Lady Violet was walking through an ancestral corridor in her night dress, a car purred round a cone in Byford Moor and stopped before the Yellow Stag. And just as Lady Violet was stretching a lily-white, brilliantly manicured hand towards a rich purple curtain, the front bell of the Yellow Stag tinkled.

Lady Violet hesitated. Should she pull the curtain aside? Her temptation was great this night. But the bell tinkled again, and temporarily saved her. The maid, who was following her temptation, hoping with all her heart that she would be tempted, suddenly sat up and listened.

The bell tinkled a third time. "A nice thing, at this time of night!" frowned the maid. But she was a faithful soul—less weak when tempted than Lady Violet—and, business being business, and not too much of it at that, she slipped out of her warm bed and put on a dark red dressing gown. It was an historic dressing gown, and had belonged to her mother when her father had gone a-wooing.

Faded red for shimmering blue silk, and dull, unkept nails for high-polished ones, yet the maid's mission was far more honorable than Lady Violet's. With no expectations of glorious guilt, she descended the well-worn stairs and, candle in hand, crossed the hall below to the front door. She unbolted and opened the door—and then, for a moment, Fate did smile upon her.

She had expected a dull commercial traveler. Instead, a well-set young man, with handsome features not unlike those of the bronzed Lord Maple-Hurlingham (at that moment waiting impatiently behind the rich purple curtain), stood before her. His smile, as with all her features, disarmed the maid, and caused her to forget her discontent.

"I'm fearfully sorry for troubling you at this disgraceful hour," said the young man, who was not unkindly like Lord Maple-Hurlingham, "but can we get a room here for the night?"

"Yes, sir," replied the maid, who would have turned out of her own if need be when spoken to in so gentlemanly a fashion, so different from that sulky beast who barked at her a week ago. "There's rooms, all to spare."

"Splendid! We're in luck!" exclaimed the visitor, and turned to a companion behind him. "All serene, Charlie—we won't have to sleep in the road." Then he turned back to the maid. "How about our car?"

"The gate to the zerridge is just round the side there," answered the maid. "I'll have it open for you in 'arf a minute."

She disappeared, and Rupert returned to Charlie, who was waiting by a car.

"Where's Juliet gone?" inquired Charlie.

"To get a key or something," said Rupert. "This looks rather a jolly run. We'll probably find it quite picturesque in tomorrow's sunlight."

"Meanwhile, Juliet, herself,

The Theater

The news columns report that the Little Theater Guild gave three one-act plays at the Opera House but the reviewer's warmth for the performances given by the amateur players seems to have been tempered by his lack of enthusiasm for the one-act play in general as a medium of stage expression.

This may be due to the fact that the review was written from the spectator's point of view, and the merit of the numbers considered wholly on their value as entertainment. As bits of drama, well and capably done from the amateur standpoint, they may measure up with the longer drama, speaking technically, but, because they destroy the sequence of continuous thought by chopping the evening's entertainment into three distinct pieces, they are apparently not as popular with the audiences.

If all numbers were comedies and the whole string together with dancing, singing or what have you, it would have been a revue, and therefore first-class entertainment. With an experienced

HEIR TO WEALTH STILL WORKS

Waynesville Grocer Busy In Store While Awaiting $67,000,000 Estate

J. L. M. HOPKINS

JAMES L. M. Hopkins, Waynesville grocerman, may be about to inherit $67,000,000 but he isn't taking any chances.

The grocery business down there requires a lot of work and isn't the pleasant occupation in the world, but what's $67,000,000 when it's clear out in California tied up in a lot of litigation.

Thus, while Waynesville's 700 inhabitants gossip over the fate that seems about to lift Hopkins from his humble grocery store to the millionaire class, the lucky heir himself, keeps busy selling canned goods, and prunes and other necessities.

HOPKINS is a great nephew of Mark Hopkins, who died intestate, in San Francisco in 1878, leaving an estate valued at $350,000,000. Sixty members of the Hopkins tribe in Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Oregon believe they are rightful heirs and on behalf of them, the Waynesville Hopkins has filed an action in a San Francisco court, charging fraud in the distribution of the estate, demanding that the money distributed be returned to the estate and for an accounting.

MARK HOPKINS was a "forty-niner" who left Tennessee to go west by covered wagon and flat boat. He made a gold strike and through investment in Central Pacific R. R. stock, real estate and fruit farms, amassed a huge fortune. A woman who said she was his common law wife was appointed administrator on his death and took $5,000,000 out of the estate. Then Nose Hopkins, a brother, got $13,000,000 but when they died, the money reverted to the estate.

Now a young man claiming the name of "Timothy Hopkins," and claiming to be an adopted son, is enjoying Mark's wealth.

"Out there in California," says the Waynesville Hopkins in his native Kentucky accent, "they say Timothy Hopkins—and he ain't no Hopkins 'cause no Hopkins would take what ain't his—they say he rides around in a big auto. That's just what I'm going to have. All
